SAYS HUSBAND IS TOO FILTHY

Fannie Brookbank of Orange Township Says Ira W. Brookbank Seldom Bathes.

DIVORCE COMPLAINT TODAY

Asks $7,000 Alimony and Order Restraining Husband From Doing Her Violence.

Alleging that her husband has knocked her front teeth out during fits of anger, that he has compelled her to build fence and do other manual labor about the farm, and that he has stunted her so that she has been compelled to go without sufficient clothing and to furnish provisions for her home, Mrs. Fannie Brookbank of Orange township brought suit in the circuit court this afternoon against her husband, Ira W. Brookbank.

She demands $7,000 alimony and a restraining order from Judge Blair to restrain him from doing violence to her body. She demands in addition that her husband be restrained from disposing of or selling any of his property and that order be made for him to deliver her clothes to her as she has not sufficient wearing apparel now to keep her warm. She also would like to get her chickens from the farm, as she maintains they will die if they are not cared for.

One of the reasons for applying for a decree, Mrs. Brookbank says is that her husband is filthy and never takes a bath. He has refused to bathe and has gone about the premises and elsewhere, the complaint says, with such old ragged, filthy clothing upon his person as to cause his wife great humiliation.

She alleges she has been compelled to furnish provisions for the home for the last two years, though afflicted with chronic disease. The complainant says Brookbank has frequently ordered his wife from his house, with threats of violence, and has said he wished she would get a divorce.

The complaint sets forth the personal property owned by husband and wife and declares further Brookbank owns a hundred-acre farm worth $15,000. She asks an allowance of five hundred dollars for attorney fees.

She declares that she has not enough clothes to go out and feed the chickens, and that she is afraid to go home after them because of her husband's past actions.

The final split in their relations came Tuesday, according to the complaint, when Brookbank knocked his wife down. She declares he has spoken to her very little in the last four years except to abuse and vilify her and curse her and call her vile and improper names.

TONS OF INK AND—

ATTORNEYS ARE TOO FULL

That is Too Full of Turkey to do Court Business.

After gorging themselves with turkey and other necessities of a Thanksgiving dinner yesterday, attorneys were rather largely, at least not much business was transacted in the circuit court. A reply was filed in the case of the Enterprising Milling Company against the Big Four. The case is at issue but will not be tried until next term. Frank Trennephole, one of the defendants in the case of John Trennephole against J. W. Johnson and others, filed a demurer.

EITHER INSANE OR CRAZY DRUNK

Mike Mosier Goes Wrong in the "Noodle" and Flourishes Revolver—Lands in Jail.

HAS PLENTY OF EXCITEMENT

Mike Mosier, employed until yesterday on the Peter Schoben farm near Sexton, is in jail awaiting an insanity inquest. Mosier suddenly became insane yesterday morning and before he was brought here, the neighborhood was in a high state of excitement. He labored under the impression that someone was after him and securing a revolver, started out to get his supposed enemy.

Mosier fired twice in the air and before he was quieted a call was sent here to the police. Policemen Wolter and Hall and Deputy sheriff Verl Bebout went to Sexton but the people there wouldn't let the officers arrest him for fear someone would get shot. Dr. Bowen of Occident succeeded in bringing Mosier here. It is thought his insanity is only temporary and due to bad liquor.

PASTOR SAID TO BE VINDICATED

Rev. S. M. Hawthorne, Arrested in Rush County Last Week, is Released at Kokomo.

PREACHES AT GWYNNEVILLE

The Shelbyville Democrat says the Rev. S. M. Hawthorne, formerly pastor of the Gwynneville Christian church who has figured in several rather sensational episodes, has been vindicated by the action of the judge of the Howard circuit court at Kokomo who released him after his arrest at the home of David Wicker in this county a week ago yesterday on an affidavit, charging non-support, filed by his wife in Kokomo.

The Rev. Mr. Hawthorne returned to Gwynneville one night this week and preached the postponed sermon he was to have preached the night of the day he was arrested. At the time of his arrest he was in bed ill at the home of the Rush county farmer where he had been husking corn as a means of livelihood. The Rev. Mr. Hawthorne tells his friends that he is persecuted by his wife who will not allow him to hold a pastorate any time without stirring up trouble. It is said that he has been called to a small church near Kokomo.

"I AM GLAD" SAYS A CONTRIBUTOR

One Man Who Helped Make Youngsters Happy Last Year, is in Fold Again.

YULETIDE SPIRIT IN THE AIR

Already Pairs of Longing Little Eyes Are Gazing Into Tempting Shop Windows.

"I was glad to read that announcement in the Republican last night that you are going to have another Santa Clause fund this year," said a man today who has been a contributor to the fund every year.

That expresses the sentiment of many people who have thought it time that the opening of the fund be announced since the Yuletide season is approaching, and the Christmas spirit permeates the air.

Merchants have begun advertising their Christmas wares and already many pairs of longing little eyes have been gazing into shop windows inspecting the many tempting things that ingenious minds have prepared for the Christmas trade.

Many of those anxious eyes will not have the joy of looking on those self-same articles Christmas morning without the aid of the kind hearted people who have in the past contributed to the Daily Republican Santa Claus fund. Theirs will be a cold and cheerless Christmas morn if the goodfellows (both male and female) do not come to the rescue and help the managers of the fund with a few cents, a few dollars, or any amount they can spare.

The fund will be conducted in much the same way it was last year. The penny boxes will be placed in prominent public places to afford people who do not care to send their contributions by mail or bring them to the office an opportunity to add their mite to the fund that is to make the poor little children of Rushville happy.

Charity workers who have been in the local field for years will make a systematic canvass of the city and learn the names of the little children who are in need, and who will entertain no hope for a merry Christmas without the aid of the Santa Clause fund contributors.

In so far as is possible all cases will be investigated to learn if the children really will be without any Christmas unless the Santa Clause fund wagon stops at their door with a package. Some times there are instances where the parents are shiftless and unworthy of assistance, but the fact still remains that their children will be received now at any time. They may be mailed, left at the office or dispatched by any person. The first list of contributors will be published early next week and from then on every day until the fund is closed.

POSEY FUNERAL SATURDAY.

The funeral of Mrs. Sarah E. Posey, who died yesterday, will be held at the late residence Saturday afternoon at one-thirty o'clock by the Rev. V. W. Tevis and the Rev. W. H. Wylie. Burial will take place in East Hill cemetery.

REMAINS BROUGHT HERE.

The remains of B. F. Treadway, who died Wednesday in Indianapolis were brought here this afternoon for burial. The funeral services were conducted in the chapel at East Hill cemetery by the Rev. C. M. Yocum. He is survived by a widow and one son, G. R. Treadway.

TWO MEN HURT IN ACCIDENTS

Sam Gallimore Suffers Broken Bones When Horses Run Away in Barn Lot Today.

DR. SHAUCK'S BUSY MORNING

Finds Freeman Gardner, Along Road With Finger Chopped Off, While on Way Home.

Dr. J. G. Shauck of Arlington had a busy morning this morning, waiting on two injured people in a few hours. He was called to dress the injuries of Sam Gallimore, living about half way between Arlington and Rushville, early today, and while on the way home from that trip found Freeman Gardner lying along the road badly injured.

Gallimore was preparing to leave his home for a days work on the farm this morning, and had left his team of horses hitched to a big farm wagon, standing in the barn lot when a cow came running around the barn and frightened the animals.

The horses started to run and Gallimore made an attempt to stop them. He got to their heads and made a wild grab for the reins in order to check their speed before they tore the wagon up. He missed the reins and his grasp fell on the stay chains and held on tight.

The horses crashed into a fence post shortly afterwards and Gallimore was hurled against the post with terrific force. The bone in the upper part of his right arm was broken, his forearm was very badly lacerated and his body was bruised.

Frehman Gardner was working on the grade just east of Arlington this morning when he was very painfully hurt in an accident that the workmen said could not be avoided. In the mishap his ring finger on his right hand was cut squarely off at the knuckle joint.

The gang of men were grubbing sycamore trees. Louis Gowdy was

Over 200 Already Enrolled For Farmers' Short Course at Cambridge City in February.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE FEATURE

The executive committee of the Farmers' Short Course to be held in Cambridge City, Feb. 3, 4 and 5, met this week and completed some of the preliminary details of the work. The programs, posters and tickets will be published at once and an active canvass begun. The chairman of the various standing committees reported very flattering prospects for a large attendance. Above 200 names have been reported for enrollment as students and patrons. The adjoining counties of Fayette, Henry and Rush are reported as taking great interest in the school. The ladies in the country as well as in town are taking unusual interest in the Domestic Science course which will be conducted by Miss Roberta McNeil, one of Purdue's best experts in that line of work. The committee on Domestic Science promises to make the women's department one of the most interesting and profitable possible. No woman who aspires to the best for the home can afford to miss this course.

swinging a heavy sharp instrument in cutting off roots, and in one blow, instead of striking a root, he hit Gardner's hand. The bone was cut off as neatly as if it had been done by an experienced surgeon.

The companions of Gardner rendered him all the aid they could and he was lying along the road suffering intense pain when Dr. Shauck happened to be passing along the way from the Arbuckle farm where Gallimore lives. He took Gardner in his automobile and hauled him on to Arlington where the wounded hand was dressed.

WILL HAVE TURKEY FOR YEARS TO COME

Dr. F. M. Sparks Wins Three of Seven Turkeys Hung on Wire at Morristown Shoot.

LOCAL MARKESMEN GET SIX

Dr. Frank M. Sparks will have turkey for several Thanksgiving days to come, thanks to his accurate eye and his steady nerve. He won three of the seven turkeys awarded at the turkey day shoot, given by the Morristown Gun club yesterday.

In fact members of the Rushville Gun club literally "cleaned up" at the Thanksgiving day shoot. Rushville markesmen won six of the seven turkeys which were offered as prizes to the best men with guns. Dr. Sparks led with three, Willard King was second with two and Earl Bever was third with one turkey. They kindly left the other turkey for members of the Morristown club and members of other clubs to fight over.

Several members of the local club attended the shoot, and today they were profuse in their praise of the Morristown sportsmen and the entertainment which they give visitors.

SOME CORN HUSKING FEAT

Everett Black Shucks an Average of 129 Bushels Per Day.

Everett Black, a farm laborer who is slight of stature but has muscle like flint, seems to have pushed all records for corn husking into the background. It is reported that in a little less than four days recently he shucked 483 bushels of corn, which is a fraction less than 129 bushels a day. James W. Rhodes, on whose farm in Center township this unusual feat was performed, and another man shucked in the same field with Black, but they could not keep insight of him. Black hails from Kokomo.

PREPARING FOR PARCELS POST

BECOMES EFFECTIVE JAN. 1

Eggs and Dressed Fowls Can Be Shipped From the Farm, Commission Decides.

In common with all postoffices of the United States the Rushville postoffice will start the parcels post system the first of next January.

The parcels post commission has just decided that meats, eggs and dressed fowls will be carried through the mails from the farm to the city consumer under the Lewis "farm products" provision of the parcels post bill.

The scheme is one which, it is said, will go a long ways toward breaking down the high price of eggs in the city. The poultry man on the farm, it is pointed out, can advertise in the city newspapers for customers for about a dozen eggs once or twice a week, delivery by parcels post. At the present time the price of eggs in the cities is nearly three times greater than it is in the country. The same schemes regarding dressed fowls can be worked, by which the city consumer can be delivered at his door a dressed chicken at a little over half what it costs retail in the city. The city butcher, on the other hand, with the meat crate that has been provided for him, can send to the urban resident or farmer every morning a roast or steak.

Manufacturers have submitted to the commission a scheme for lightweight corrugated paper boxes in which these articles can be packed for transportation without fear of damage. The egg crate is made of strong corrugated pasteboard. It has square partitions for each egg, and the scheme is one which the postal experts declare will enable the poultry men in the country to ship eggs to any part of the United States. Boxes have also been made for meats and dressed fowls.

With the establishment of these facilities the postal experts declare it now remains with the city merchants and the poultry man and trucker in the country to extend their trade through the medium of the parcels post.

The parcels post commission has also worked out the insurance regulation by which valuable packages sent by city merchants to their urban trade can be indemnified in case of loss. This means that the insurance provision of the law will be put into

AMUSEMENTS

A dramatic event of unusual importance will be the appearance at the Shubert Murat Theatre, Indianapolis, for the week beginning Monday, December 24, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday, of Henry W. Savage's dramatic spectacle, "Everywoman." It will be remembered that "Everywoman" is a dramatic novelty and is in reality partly opera, partly musical comedy, partly drama, with a huge spectacular setting. Over 150 people appear in the production and are required to work the various mechanical and electrical effects. In addition there is an entire symphony orchestra and a cast of players which includes fully a score of names known to the seasoned playgoers. "Everywoman" has been endorsed by the clergy and the press and editorial writers throughout

America, and has been the subject of more discussion than any other production in the last twenty years. Besides providing entertainment, delighting the eye and the ear, it presents a moral lesson which is timely and beneficent.

The title role will be played by Adele Blood, a young woman of keen dramatic instincts and remarkable blond beauty. Miss Blood had the distinction of playing the role over 200 nights in New York and received the unanimous endorsement of every one of New York's dramatic critics. She is one of the most photographed and best dressed woman of the stage. In the third act of "Everywoman" she wears a marvelous gown of cloth of gold which was made for her this summer in Paris by Paquin. The cost of this gown was $3,800. It is a significant fact that Henry W. Savage considers "Everywoman" the most ambitious and successful production he has ever made. It represents an expenditure of over $60,000.

Over three million people have witnessed it during the last two years, and it is now being performed in five different languages in as many countries.

"Everywoman" was written by Walter Brown, a poorly-paid New York newspaper man, who died on the morning of the day of its first performance. It is an interesting fact to know that the royalties accruing therefrom have made his widow and three children, who were left penniless, rich.

THE PENALTY OF INCOMPETENCY

"Young Turks" Have Been Put Out of Office.

THE CONSTITUTION ABROGATED

Reverting to the Old Forms of Absolutism, Turkish Cabinet, After Long Planning and Seizing the Opportunity Presented by the War, Has Effected a Change of Government Over Night Without Protest From People.

Vienna, Nov. 29.—The peace parliaments now proceeding at Tchataldja between the commissioners of the allies and the Turkish plenipotentiaries are not promising. The proposals on both sides are irreconcilable. The Bulgarians are preparing for the resumption of hostilities by summoning next year's recruits and the Servian auxiliaries, who are already marching to the front.

Constantinople, Nov. 29.—A resolution has been passed by the cabinet declaring that "inasmuch as four years' test has proved that constitutional government is neither suitable nor effective in the case of the Ottoman empire, the government, in the highest interests of the empire, has decided on the abrogation of the constitution."

A state council containing a number of Christian members will be invested with a portion of the legislative powers of parliament. The government, however, will not be responsible to the state council. The announcement of an imperial decree enforcing this resolution evidently was the result of long, careful planning. Everything indicated that the absolutists had been awaiting their opportunity for months. The war with the Balkan allies furnished this opportunity.

The Young Turks were wonderfully clever as conspirators, but none of them had administrative ability. Instead of devoting themselves to the business of real reform when they gained control of the government, they played politics. They were theorists and each had a different theory of government which he insisted on trying. The result was complete disorganization of the governmental machinery. The war revealed the almost unbelievable thoroughness with which they had wrecked one of the finest military establishments in the world, proving to everyone their incompetency.

Sultan a Mere Puppet.

Even those who originally favored constitutional government could not but admit today that any change from Young Turkish rule would be an improvement. For the present, at any rate, it seemed unlikely that the latest revolution would meet with the least opposition.

That the change will mean anything to the present sultan was regarded as very unlikely. He has been ever since his elevation to the throne a mere puppet in the hands of whatever group was in control of the government, and will probably serve the absolutists as satisfactorily as he did the constitutionalists when they were in power.

Preparations for the step had been made very carefully. For days past the authorities have been quietly gathering in the Young Turkish leaders and transferring them to places of confinement on the Asiatic side of the Bosphorus. Constitutionalists in high army posts have been gradually weeded out, and men who were known to believe popular government poorly adapted to Turkish requirements put in their places. Nazim Pasha, minister of war and active commander of the army, has always opposed the Young Turks. Enver Bey, the ablest man in the Young Turkish organization, has been in Tripoli since soon after the outbreak of the war with Italy.

EUROPE FACES CRISIS

War Cloud So Long Threatening Now Promises to Break.

London, Nov. 29.—Europe today may be on the verge of general warfare. The long feared crisis came with the capture of Durazzo, in Albania, by the Servian troops. The Servians entered this port on the Adriatic, which Austria is determined Serbia shall not have. In the face of a virtual ultimatum from Vienna, if Austria carries out its threat to fight, warfare that will involve practically every power in Europe is considered inevitable. The Servians were offered no resistance at Durazzo. An Austrian steamer which was in the harbor departed immediately with a number of refugees after the Servians entered the town.

A few days more may spell the future of the big powers of Europe. Behind Austria, in its demand that Albania shall retain its autonomy, is Italy and Germany, while the Servians are backed by the triple entente, England, Russia and France. Russia already is known to be making preparations for war, and although military news from Austria is under strict censorship it is known that Austrian troops have been partially mobilized, and that the strongholds along the Russian border line have been strengthened materially within the last few days.

Lesson IX.—Fourth Quarter, For Dec. 1, 1912.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Mark ix, 14-29. Memory Verses, 28, 29—Golden Text, Mark ix, 23 (R. V.)—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

For a little while heaven and earth had touched in a new way, by those who had once lived on earth, but had been long absent from it, one by death and one by translation. When the risen and translated saints shall be reigning with Christ in His kingdom (Rev. v. 9, 10; xx, 4) this will probably be the ordinary, everyday occurrence everywhere, the New Jerusalem from heaven and the one on earth in perfect accord, the glorified church and redeemed Israel the heavenly and earthly centers of His kingdom, when a king shall reign in righteousness and the work of righteousness shall be peace and the nations shall learn war no more (Isa. xxxii, 1, 17; ii, 4).

As the devil was in control at the foot of the mountain when Jesus and His disciples came down and the disciples there could not conquer him, so it shall be when Jesus Christ shall come in His glory; then He shall bind the strong man, whom the church cannot cast out, and shut him up in the pit and take control of his property, for till then the whole world shall continue in the wicked one as the prince of this world. Let those who would understand take the trouble to ponder, with prayer and meekness and submission to the word of God, the following passages, for it is all important to understand this present age, its ruler and his doom: I John v, 19, R. V.; John xiv, 30; II Cor. iv, 4; Eph. ii, 2; II Thess. ii, 7-10; Dan. vii, 25; xl, 35, 36; xii, 1, 10; Rev. xiii, 7, 8; xvii, 14; xix, 19, 20; xx, 1-5.

Turning back from this faraway look to the particular incidents of the lesson, we note that it is not in order for us to continue too long in any place of special privilege when there is work to be done and people in distress needing us at the foot of the hill. Special times and places of special revelations of Himself to us are to fit us to be better witnesses unto Him with increasing victory over the world, the flesh and the devil. If the prayer meeting, the Bible class, the Bible conference and such times and places of fellowship with Him do not enable us, in the days following, to show more of His presence and power in the home, the place of business, the social life, where is the benefit? People say, "I was so blessed, I had such an uplift, it did me so much good." Well, thank God, but now show it in your life and you won't need to tell it, and, if your life does not show it, better say nothing about it. The spirit through James teaches us that faith that is mere talk amounts to nothing; there must be works corresponding to our faith for the sake of those who do not understand.

John says, "My little children, let us not love in word, neither in tongue, but in deed and in truth" (Jas. ii, I John iii). The story of this demonic boy is written briefly in Matthew and Luke, but most fully in Mark. Luke tells us that he was an only child and that when he was healed Jesus delivered him again to his father (Luke ix, 38, 42). An only child given to Jesus' hands is given back better than when He received him, made perfectly whole. He is the same yesterday, today and forever, this same Jesus.

Take in this scene as well as you can—a great multitude, a distressed father, a sorely afflicted only child, some disciples of Jesus truly saved who had on other occasions wrought miracles, but now are helpless. "They could not cure him."

Did you ever see yourself, a true follower of Jesus, yet powerless to show something of Him to those who know Him not and unable to help those who need help? Did you say from the heart, "Why could not I?" And did you hear Him say, "Because of your unbelief?" (Matt. xvii, 20.) And have you been wondering since if you really knew what it means to "have faith in God?" Then what about the prayer and fasting necessary in some cases? Oh, how much there is to learn, and how many seem to have a dumb spirit or an evil spirit of some kind, that seems too often to control us.

"Bring him hither to me" is about what He said concerning the bread when He fed the thousands. "Come unto me" is His cry to all the weary and heavy laden, and we may well say, "Lord, to whom shall we go but unto Thee?" (Matt. xi, 28; John vi, 68.) This evil spirit had long sought to destroy this child, and now he made a last effort. The devil has always been and still is a destroyer, a devourer, a murderer, but the Lord is the life giver, the deliverer, the Saviour.

Hear the father's cry, "If thou canst do anything!" His disciples failed. Could He do better? People who do not know the Lord judge Him by His followers. Are we bringing Him honor or reproach? Jesus said unto him, "If thou canst believe, all things are possible to him that believeth" (verse 23). "Lord, I believe," cried the father. Jesus rebuked the spirit and commanded him to come out of him. Ere he did so he rent him sore and left him as one dead, but he departed out of him. Jesus took him by the hand and lifted him up, and he arose and was cured from that very hour. Our Lord does not give the same power to all, but to each one severally as He will.

HELD TO ANSWER FOR MURDER OF HEIRESS

The Two Conways Indicted at Chicago.

Chicago, Nov. 29.—An indictment charging Charles Conway, the circus clown and wooden legged high diver, and Beatrice Ryall Conway, vaudeville actress and lion tamer, with the murder of Miss Sophia Singer, Baltimore heiress, has been returned before Judge Kersten. The two were held without bail.

The Singer woman was murdered on Oct. 28. Her body, bound and gagged, was found in a rooming house. She had been struck on the head with a doorknob wrapped in cloth. Her money, about $45, and clothing belonging to her and to her fiancé, a Baltimore streetcar conductor, was stolen. The Conways were caught after being trailed across Indiana, to Lima, O., at the home of Conway's mother.

LOST ON FOUL

Ad Wolgast Relinquishes Championship to Willie Ritchie.

San Francisco, Nov. 29.—Wildly excited throngs of fight fans at Daly City carried from the roped arena their first pugilistic lightweight champion. Willie Ritchie was hoisted on the shoulders of his supporters and 7,000 spectators made the hills echo with their exulting shouts.

With the sixteenth round having only two seconds to go, Champion Wolgast fouled Ritchie and the referee was quick to raise the local lad's glove in token of victory. The disqualification came after Ritchie had floored Wolgast twice. Whether the foul was intentional or not was the theme of discussion among thousands as they left the arena.

In the sixteenth Ritchie rushed Wolgast and landed a fierce right across to the jaw which sent Wolgast to the ropes. Again Ritchie whipped his right across and Wolgast went down. He got up groggy and after taking another right to the jaw, he delivered the two fouls that cost him the fight.

What Republicans Leave.

In turning over the control of the affairs of the country to another party the Republicans have the pleasure of reporting everything in solvent shape, with prosperity at high tide in all the states and outlying possessions. Another item to which attention is called by an official statement sets forth the fact that the foreign trade of the United States for the year 1912 will pass the four-billion line for the first time. When the Dingley law was passed in 1897 it was said that the return to a protective policy would cripple our foreign trade and set the world against us to our heavy loss. What really happened was a great and general increase. Our foreign trade in 1897, the total of exports and imports, was $1,810,000,000. It passed $2,000,000,000 in 1899, $3,000,000,000 in 1906, and will exceed $4,000,000,000 in the present calendar year.

This advance would have been called progressiveness before the word fell into freakish disrepute comments the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. It is enough now to refer to it as solid progress. All has occurred under protective tariffs, one of which is still in force, though shortly to be sapped and mined by a minority of voters invested with complete authority by pluralities in a three-sided fight. A majority of voters supported protective platforms in the recent contest but this majority must go into the background for the next two years. They hand over the reins of power with an excellent record, and, what is even better, a good conscience. The Republican party does not consider the year 1912 a barren one for itself. In national convention assembled it rejected a third-term movement for the second time. It would rather stand by its principles and be defeated than go into any form of demagoguery for the sake of expediency. In two former years it was retired. But how quickly and gladly the people recalled it!

They Are Unpopular.

November and December are not popular months. Their penetrating winds are called sour and churlish by a steam heated generation.

The man who lives close to nature knows better. There are suggestions both of power and of peace in the landscape and the silence of a late autumn twilight.

The springtime with its bird songs, its voices of labor, conveys its restless ideas of frolic, of motion, of struggle, and of toil. The stillness of an autumn twilight is the peace of warfare accomplished, of achievements concluded. The old earth has gathered together its forces, and waits in supreme confidence the onslaughts of the North Wind.

The leafless tree lacks the flickering beauty of spring. But its firm articulation against a glowing sky suggests well ordered power. Seen in a mass a distance, under the dull rays of a low sun, the tremulous green is replaced by a dull grey brown, suggestive of reserve strength. Silent peace fills the heart of the traveler as he draws homeward through the crisp landscape. There is wine in the air, there is spring in the foot-step, and the silence of nature is not that of decay, but of fruition and preparation for a future rebirth.

As Gov. Wilson has received only 100,000 applications for office, the other 14,900 voters will have to hurry up if they expect receive favorable consideration before March 4.

If the President will talk about nice, pleasant, and remote subject like the canals of Mars, no doubt Congress will listen to his message.

It would never do to put Col. Gothals on one of these jobs of river and harbor improvement. He might get it done sometime.

HOOSIER GAME IS VERY SCARCE

J. J. Bravey, State Warden, Declares Severe Winter Last Year is The Cause.

MANY QUAIL WERE STARVED

Birds More Plentiful in Communities Where Farmers Take Trouble to Feed Them.

That game is scarce throughout Indiana was the assertion of J. J. Bravey of Anderson, deputy state game warden, while in Newcastle. He stated that he never in his recollection knew of such a small number of quail and rabbits.

"The scarcity of the birds is due to the extreme cold of last winter," said Mr. Bravey. "The quail froze and starved by the thousands and consequently the stock of birds was greatly reduced and a parent stock was not on hand last summer to cause the feathered population to multiply.

"Quails as a rule are hary provided they can get feed. With sufficient food they will be able to withstand the greatest cold. Many farmers are feeding the birds during the winter months and it is a great help to them. If every farmer would do that the number would soon greatly increase. The cold weather kills more quail each year than the hunters and as the birds are a great help to the farmers by their destruction of insects the feeding in winter should be more broadcast.

"I believe that there is more quail in Jay county than any other county in eastern Indiana. The farmers there almost to a man provide food for the birds during the winter months and consequently they have survived the hard climates and are rapidly multiplying.

"The rabbit supply is low also because of last season's cold weather. The heavy rains in the spring also drowned thousands of the young rabbits."

Warden Bravey is traveling all over Indiana watching for violations of the State game laws. This is the time of year when violations of the game law are commonest because the open season is on and many hunters are in the fields every day. Warden Bravey generally comes into a community unannounced.

operation when the parcels post is inaugurated in January. The collection delivery system has not yet been perfected, but the experts expect to originate a scheme for returning the money collected on delivery of packages without much bookkeeping on the part of the government.

Some of the experts believe that the parcels post collection delivery business will eventually bring fractional currency. If this is done, they assert, the problem of returning money will not be hard to solve.

Steps were taken by Postmaster-General Hitchcock to ascertain just to what extent city and town merchants intend to use the parcels post. To postmasters circulars have been sent that contain a number of questions which, when answered, give the department detailed information as to any particular city, town or locality showing the average number of fourth class parcels now mailed; the number that will probably be mailed when the parcels post law becomes effective, together with the average weight of the parcels and their average size; what proportion of the entire number will be for local delivery, and whether they will be mailed in large quantities at frequent intervals or in regular daily mailings; what percentage of the parcels will be insured, registered, made up of perishable or fragile articles and whether when the "C. O. D." feature is placed in operation any considerable portion of the parcels will be sent by that method.

The extent to which the parcels' post will be used is problematical. It is expected that it will be greatly used and that in the future many articles which have been delivered through other mediums will be delivered through the postal service.

Postmaster Frazee and his subordinates are busying themselves with the instructions which have been sent them from the postmaster general's office, and will endeavor to be fully informed on all details of the new system by the time the date arrives for putting it into operation.

The act of congress creating the parcels' post contains the following statement setting out just what kind of articles shall be transmittable by the service:

"Hereafter fourth-class mail matter shall embrace all other matter, including farm and factory products, not now embraced by law in either the first, second or third class, not exceeding eleven pounds in weight, nor greater in size than seventy-two inches in length and girth combined, nor in form or kind likely to injure the person of any postal employee or damage the mail equipment or other mail matter and not a character perishable within a period reasonably required for transportation and delivery."

The foregoing statement should be studied carefully by every person, for it reveals precisely for what purposes the parcels' post can be used. In this connection every person should bear in mind the following facts:

1. That distinctive parcels post stamps must be used on all fourth-class matter beginning January 1, 1913, and that such matter bearing ordinary postage stamps will be treated as "Held for Postage."

2. That parcels will be mailable only at postoffices, branch postoffices, lettered and local-named stations, and such numbered stations as may be designated by the postmaster.

3. That all parcels must bear the return card of the sender; otherwise they will not be accepted for mailing.

Importance of familiarity with the three foregoing provisions doubtless will be instantly apparent to everybody. It must be understood that ordinary postage stamps absolutely can not be used for mailing fourth class mailmatter; parcels' post stamps must be used. Fourth class mail matter can not be mailed by dropping it into letter boxes or other receptacles for mail matter which for the convenience of the public are placed throughout the town or along rural routes. Such matter must be mailed at the postoffice or at some one of the stations indicated by the department. Furthermore, no package will be accepted for transmission and delivery by parcels' post that does not bear the return address of the sender.

The cost of the delivery of mail matter by parcels' post regulated by distance. For this purpose the United States and its several territories and possessions, not including the Philippine Islands, shall be divided into units represented on appropriate postal maps, and such units of area shall be the basis of eight postal zones. The first zone embraces all the territory within a mean radical distance of fifty miles from the center of a given unit or area; the second zone includes the territory outside the first zone and within 150 miles of the given center of area; the third zone embraces the territory between the 150-mile and 300-mile radial distances; the fourth zone that between the 300-mile and 600-mile radial distances; the fifth zone that between the 600-mile and 1,000-mile radial distances; the sixth zone that between the 1,000-mile and 1,400-mile radial distance; the seventh zone that between the 1,400-mile and 1,800-mile radial distance; the eighth zone shall include all units of area outside the seventh zone.

The provisions as to the postage rates for each of the eight zones are as follows:

That the rate of postage on fourth-class matter weighing not more than four ounces shall be one cent each ounce or fraction of an ounce; and on such matter in excess of four ounces in weight the rate shall be by the pound, as hereinafter provided, the postage in all cases to be prepaid by distinctive postage stamps affixed.

That except as provided in the next preceding paragraph postage on matter of the fourth-class shall be prepaid at the following rates:

On all matter mailed at the postoffice from which a rural route starts, for delivery on such route, or mailed at any point on such route for delivery at any other point thereon, or at the office from which the route starts or on any rural route, starting therefrom, and on all matter mailed at a city carrier office, or at any point within its delivery limits, for delivery by carriers from that office, or at any office for local delivery, five cents for the first pound or fraction of a pound and one cent for each additional pound or fraction of a pound.

For delivery within the first zone, except as provided in the next preceding paragraph, five cents for the first pound or fraction of a pound and three cents for each additional pound or fraction of a pound.

For delivery within the second zone, six cents for the first pound or fraction of a pound and four cents for each additional pound or fraction of a pound.

For delivery within the third zone, seven cents for the first pound or fraction of a pound and five cents for each additional pound or fraction of a pound.

For delivery within the fourth zone, eight cents for the first pound or fraction of a pound and six cents for each additional pound or fraction of a pound.

For delivery within the fifth zone, nine cents for the first pound or fraction of a pound and seven cents for each additional pound or fraction of a pound.

For delivery within the sixth zone, ten cents for the first pound or fraction of a pound and nine cents for each additional pound or fraction of a pound.

For delivery within the seventh zone, eleven cents for the first pound or fraction of a pound and ten cents for each additional pound or fraction of a pound.

For delivery within the eighth zone, and between the Philippine Islands and any portion of the United States, including the District of Columbia and the several territories and possessions, twelve cents for the first pound or fraction of a pound and twelve cents for each additional pound or fraction of a pound.

To what extent the parcels' post will increase the work in the local postoffice can not at this time be foreseen. The amount of the labor will depend of course on the extent to which the service is used.

PROBABLY DUE TO A MISPRINT

Popular Legend as to Which Has Nine Lives, Turkey or Cat in Dispute.

MUST BE THANKSGIVING BIRD

Most People Begin to Realize That Today When They Eat Second Life.

There is a popular legend to the effect that a cat has nine lives. This is a mistake, and originated doubtless from a misprint in an early newspaper. The statement should have read that the turkey has nine lives, and this paper here and now makes the correction, although it did not make the original mistake.

The proof of the pudding is the eating, to quote another old statement, and the proof that the turkey has nine lives is also the eating of it. Turkey in a small family is served roasted on Thanksgiving day. The next day cold turkey is served. The next day is today, and in many homes in Rushville today cold turkey was the chief feature of the menu. Tomorrow there may be some more cold turkey and if the remains of the bird are not served in that manner they will be handed you under some sort of disguise. There may be soup containing bits of turkey, making you put away what is left of the bird without hardly knowing it. On the other hand there may be turkey croquettes, whatever they may be. Since the women have been getting so much information along the lines of domestic science many of them can now open the window, grab a handful of fresh air, pat it into shape, roll it in cracker crumbs, add salt and pepper and then bake in a hot oven for seven minutes, after which it is served with a collar and necktie of lettuce or parsley. So this year the new knowledge of cooking possessed by many local women will doubtless enable them to dispose of the Thanksgiving turkey in new and wonderful ways.

Just the same the meat you are eating is turkey meat, just the same. You may break, you may shatter the bird if you will, but the memory of warmed over meat will cling to it still.

It is altogether possible, and very likely probable that many families in Rushville did not have so much dinner Thursday but what they licked the platter clean right there and then. However, in plenty of homes the turkey was on the table as large as life and twice as natural. Unless there was considerable company around the family board there was some of the turkey left today. And there will be some warmed over tomorrow and perhaps the next day.

Thanksgiving has its sorrows as well as its joys, and the chief sorrow is in finding out that the turkey has nine lives and that each life must be eaten.

Mrs. Margaret Bussel entertained at a Thanksgiving dinner, Jacob Ash and family of Morristown, Cary Phares and family of Manilla, J. N. Ash and family of Gwynneville and J. A. Bussel and family of west of this city and Miss Susan Bussel of this city.

Katherine and Mary Louise Wyatt entertained a few of their friends this afternoon at their home, corner of Third and Perkins street in honor of the Misses Clara Lyman Barker and Virginia Barker of Louisville, Ky., who are visiting here.

The wedding of Mrs. Athalia R. Ball and William T. Lewark was solemnized on Thanksgiving eve by the Rev. C. M. Yocum at the home of the bride in north Sexton street. The residence was very prettily decorated. Many beautiful presents were received. Light refreshments were served to about fifty friends. The out-of-town guests were Mrs. Edward Myer of Cincinnati, sister of the bride; Miss Myrl Lewark of Muncie, granddaughter to the bridegroom; and his sister, Mrs. Dave Woods and Mr. Woods, of Elwood; Mrs. Alice Otis of Terry, Montana; V. E. Lewark and family of Glenwood; Mrs. Earl Banta of Chicago; Miss Cora Wilson of Glenwood; Charles Heyl of Alpine, Ind.

Forty couples, including many from a distance, attended the Thanksgiving dance of the Goodfellowship club last night in the Modern Woodmen hall. The dance was one of the most enjoyable held here for sometime, the program being an attractive one and the music good. It was the second dance of the club and like the first was a great success. Among the out-of-the-city guests were, Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone Barrett, Bloomington; Miss Mary Conwell, Jeff Kemp, Carl Tingle, Mark Dennis, Indianapolis; the Misses Mary Sietz and Minnie Boyle, Greensburg; Miss Helen Douglas, Porter, Anderson, Knightstown; Howard Fenton, Anderson; Wilbur Wenger, Connersville; Miss Ramona, Norris and Will Morris of Carthage.

Don't waste your money buying strengthening plasters. Chamberlain's Liniment is cheaper and better. Dampen a piece of flannel with it and bind it over the affected parts and it will relieve the pain and soreness.

WANT ADS BRING RESULTS

THE ROOT OF EVIL

BY THOMAS DIXON

Copyright, 1911, by Thomas Dixon

"I won't go without you," the financier said peevishly. "You know the place, you know all about the birds, you can teach me the ins and outs of the business and I can trust you. I know that you won't try to worm out of me any information my enemies would like to know. I appeal to the boy I used to know at college, the fellow who fought for me one day."

Stuart hesitated and looked at Nan, who had stood motionless while Bivens spoke.

"Well, if that's the way you put it, I'll take a vacation and go with you for a month."

Bivens seized his hand and pressed it gratefully.

"Best medicine I've had in weeks," Nan walked slowly across the room, looked into his eyes and said, with emotion:

"Thank you, Jim."

In five days the party had completed all preparations and Bivens' big steamer, the Buccaneer, slipped quietly through the Narrows and headed for the Virginia coast, towing a trim little schooner built for cruising in the shoal waters of the south.

They had scarcely put to sea when Stuart began to curse himself for being led into such a situation.

Bivens had insisted with amateurish enthusiasm that they begin the cruise on the little schooner—with her limited crew and close quarters—at once, and use the Buccaneer as her tender. The moment they struck the swell outside Sandy Hook the financier went to bed and the doctor never left his side until the trip ended.

Nan was in magnificent spirits, her cheeks flushed and her eyes sparkled with the joy of a child. Stuart watched her with growing wonder at her eternal youth.

The night was one of extraordinary springlike air though it was the 15th of December. A gentle breeze was blowing from the south and the full moon flooded the smooth sea with soft silvery radiance. Nan insisted that Stuart sit on deck with her. There was no help for it. Bivens would allow no one except the doctor in his room, and so Stuart resigned himself to the beauty of the glorious scene.

"Jim," she said, softly. "I don't like your attitude, and I think we'd better fight it out here and now in the beginning of this trip. It's useless to deny it. You hesitated to come on deck with me in the moonlight this evening. Your assumption of such chilling virtue is insulting. I wish an apology and a promise never to do so again."

"Have I really made you feel this?" he asked contritely.

"You have and feel it keenly. Let's come to an understanding. You and I both live in glass houses set on a very high hill. No matter what may be the secrets of my heart, I'm not a fool, and you can trust my good sense."

Stuart pressed her hand and said gently:

"I'm awfully sorry if I've made such an ass of myself that you have received."

30,000 VOICES!

And Many Are The Voices of Rushville People.

Thirty thousand voices—What a grand chorus! And that's the number of American men and women who are publicly praising Doan's Kidney Pills for relief from backache, kidney and bladder ills. They say it to friends. They tell it in the home papers. Rushville people are in this chorus. Here's a Rushville case.

S. Bebout, 404 W. First St., Rushville, Ind., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are just as represented and I am glad to recommend them. I had pains through my back and kidneys and the action of my kidneys was irregular. When I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills I did so and they soon brought relief."

Mr. Bebout is only one of many Rushville people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills. If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask DISTINCTLY FOR DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS, the remedy backed by home testimony. 50c all stores. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. "When your back is lame—Remember the name."

"Then I forgive you!" she cried, with a laugh, releasing her hand and rising, "but on one condition."

"Name it."

"That from this hour you be your old self without restraint and let me be mine."

"I promise faithfully."

"Then you help me down that steep companionway and I'll go to bed. Good night."

But he didn't spend a good night. The longer he thought of it the more sinister and dangerous he felt his position. At last he squarely faced the fact that his desire for Nan had increased a hundredfold by the fact that he had lost her.

As he sat in the darkness in his stateroom he could hear every sound with emotion:

"Best medicine I've had in weeks," in the adjoining one which she occupied as plainly as if the thin paneling of wood were not between them.

He was a fool to be caught in such a trap. His love had been too big and serious a tragedy to end in a vulgar intrigue. He made up his mind to cut his trip short on some pretext, and in the meantime he would devote himself faithfully to an attempt to start Bivens on the road to recovery.

At 8 o'clock the next morning the black nose of the Buccaneer slowly felt her way into Hog Island inlet, on the shores of old Virginia, and dropped her anchor in the deep waters of the channel back of the sand spit.

As Stuart stepped on deck a cloud of black ducks circled gracefully overhead and slowly spread out on their feeding grounds. His heart gave a throb of primitive joy. He was a boy again and the world was young.

"Confound them!" he cried. "I'll show these ducks a trick or two before this trip is over."

He was glad he came. Bivens had put him in command of the little schooner, and he gave orders at once to lower a tender and tow her to an old anchorage he knew in a little cove behind Gull marsh. And then his trouble began with Bivens.

"Let 'em fly if they want to; I'm not going to budge. Go yourself, Jim."

"Go myself? What do you suppose I gave up my work and came down here a month for? I came to try to teach you how to live, you fool, and I'm not going without you. Get into your togs! The guides are here and ready. The tide waits for no man, not even a millionaire; it's ebbing now."

"Well, let it ebb. I don't want to stop it!" the sick man snarled.

Nan came in, pressed Stuart's hand as she passed, nodded good morning and joined her voice to Stuart's. "Come; you must go, Cal. It's a glorious day."

The doctor slipped in a word too.

"By all means, Mr. Bivens, get your hands lifted himself to a half sitting posture, glared at his physician and yelled with fury:

"Get out—all of you—and let me alone!"

The doctor and Nan left on tip toe, but Stuart folded his arms and looked at Bivens.

"Oh, come now, this is too ridiculous, a quarrel the first day of our shooting. But you'll have to get one thing fixed in your head once for all;

INDIGESTION

Causes Dizziness, Nervousness Sick Headache, Sleeplessness.

MI-O-NA STOMACH TABLETS BANISH ALL MISERY, GAS AND SOURNESS.

You know that most of the ailments named above come from an out of order stomach; of course you do. If your food doesn't digest, but lays heavily on your stomach, it has started to ferment.

When it ferments it sets loose in the stomach poisonous gases which irritate the great nerve that leads directly to the brain from the stomach.

That irritation causes heartburn, dizziness, nervousness, sleeplessness.

MI-O-NA will end all stomach misery, or money back. A large box costs only 50 cents and is sold by F. B. Johnson and Company and druggists everywhere. (Advertisement.)

You don't run the Buccaneer with a telephone, telegraph and mail service have been suspended. The Buccaneer has put to sea for New York. You're on a little eighty-foot schooner, anchored in a bay ten miles wide and a hundred miles long and I'm in command. I won't stand any nonsense from you. Come down off your perch, quick!"

Bivens started to swear, caught the expression of Stuart's face and suddenly extended his hand.

"I'm sorry, Jim; it was awfully nice of you to come. I'll stay in today, but you go and get some ducks for dinner, like a good boy, and say—take Nan along and teach her to shoot. It's getting to be the rage among the high flyers for the women to shoot."

"Please do, Jim!" Nan cried from the door. She had listened outside to the duel in the stateroom.

"All right," he answered. For five days Bivens stuck to his bed with dogged determination, and each day Stuart went out with Nan. Never had she been more resistlessly charming. Each day their association grew in tender intimacy and every fear that had stirred his heart at first was lulled at last to sleep.

On the sixth day Bivens rose early and declared that he would try the ducks. The barometer was falling, and dark, snowy looking clouds were piling up on the western horizon. A breeze came stealing out of the cloud banks with the chill of snow in its breath.

Bivens insisted on going out at once, against the advice and the protest of the guide. He not only insisted on going after the ducks, but, what was worse, swore that he was going to get his mail and telegrams from the shore. Stuart protested vigorously.

"I've told you that the guide is the only man who can run that tender over the crooked course to the mainland, and if he goes away we'll have no one to take us out."

"What do you need a guide for? It's not a half mile to those bluffs. I've seen you every day go back and forth in plain view of the yacht. Nan could row out there and back by herself. Send him ashore. Don't you know how to put out your own decoys?"

"If a strong blow comes we'll need two strong men to handle the boat."

"Rot!" Bivens cried. "We've got two tenders. Send your guide ashore with one of the sailors to run his engine. The other man can tow us out and back."

HOW TO TREAT AILING CHILDREN

Growing children play hard and work hard at school, which with rapid growth uses up an enormous amount of energy and vitality that must be replaced.

When a child is tired all the time no appetite, weak, delicate and sickly we guarantee Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, will build them up, create a hearty appetite, sound flesh and muscle tissue, pure healthy blood, and make them strong.

Mary Lang of Altoona, Pa., writes: "Ever since childhood I have been weak and delicate and my blood has been thin and poor. Many different forms of treatment did me no good, but last spring I took Vinol and now I am so much stronger and better that I want you to know it. I don't know when I have felt so well and vigorous as I have since taking Vinol."

If Vinol fails to do just what we say, we will give back your money. F. B. Johnson and Company, Rushville, Indiana.

HE WELCOMED BIG IRON DOORS

Harry Moose Glad When Prison Gates Shut On Him.

RELIEVED OF HAUNTING DREAD

Not Since the Gary Bribery Cases Developed Had Former City Clerk of That Town Enjoyed a Real Rest From Torment Until He Passed the Grim Portals of the State Prison to Enter Upon His Sentence.

Michigan City, Ind., Nov. 29.—Harry Moose, the former city clerk of Gary, haunted by fear till the big iron doors of the state prison clanged behind him, is now enjoying the first real rest from terror he has had since the Gary bribery cases developed. When the leaders involved in the bribery charges paid Moose to leave the state they also "shadowed" him, according to his statement. He was never free from espionage, and finally the constant watching of his movements "got on his nerves" and he began to fear every shadow. It was this fear and alleged threats on his life that led him to return and surrender. Moose first sought the protection of Thomas B. Dean, the only man he knew who was not afraid of the Gary crowd. Accompanied by Dean he went to Crown Point. Even there he was afraid that someone would shoot him from the shadows. He told Sheriff Tom Grant that he wished to be put in a cell. Grant informed him that he did not have the necessary commitment papers. He then pleaded for protection. Grant finally gave him a cell in the hospital ward.

And after his plea of guilty Moose feared the trip to Michigan City. He said he would never ride through the streets of Gary. He believed that someone would take a pot shot at him. Sheriff Grant finally suggested they go in an automobile. Moose approved of the plan and the trip was made. It was a cold day for so long a ride, but Moose did not care. Finally the prison was reached. Then for the first time Moose smiled. He was swallowed up by those grim walls, but a load was lifted from his mind. At last he was safe. He walked with a springy step, his head erect, just as it used to be when he was city clerk of Gary and one of the leading citizens.

Moose is probably the only man who ever entered the Michigan City prison with a light heart, the terror of the threats made against him having vanished. Moose was sentenced to from six months to five years in prison. He is hoping that it will be five years instead of six months.

MERCHANT TESTIFIES

Detailed Account of a Dynamiting "Job" at Cleveland.

Indianapolis, Nov. 29.—Edward Kohl, general merchant of North Menden, O., a suburb of Cleveland, gave the jury in the dynamiting cases a detailed account of the destruction of the bridge that spanned the Erie railroad at that place and pointed out George Anderson, business agent of the Cleveland local, as the man whom he met coming away from the scene of the explosion. Kohl was standing in the rear of his store when the explosion occurred and he grabbed his revolver and a lantern and started toward the bridge. When near the bridge he met Anderson and threw the light of the lantern on his face, recognizing him, and this recognition was confirmed in the courtroom when he pointed Anderson out.

Daniel Gallagher, a former reporter on the Springfield (Mass.) Union, testified that in April, 1911, after the dynamiting attack on the clock tower at the municipal group of buildings in Springfield, Frank J. Higgins, New England organizer for the International Association of Iron Workers, told him that it had cost $300,000 to do the job; that the man who had done it had gone to Albany from Springfield and that he (Higgins) had gone to Hartford, Conn., in order to have an alibi for the date of the explosion.

Ortle McManigal had testified to his attack on the big tower and to leaving for Albany.

BALDWIN TAX CASE

Judge Tillet, in Cass Court, Reduces Amount to Be Paid.

Logansport, Ind., Nov. 29.—In the Cass circuit court Judge Joseph N. Tillet of Peru decided the case of William T. Wilson, executor of the Daniel P. Baldwin estate, against M. M. Minnick, treasurer of Cass county. He canceled alleged unpaid sequestered taxes in the sum of $29,741, which had been placed on the tax duplicates by a tax ferret. Judge Tillet reduced the amount to $3,979.04. He rendered a special finding of facts, and fixed for each year the amount of property which Baldwin had failed to list.

In his review of evidence and testimony the judge said the Baldwin-Dague banks at Ambala, Goodland and Fowler were never solvent, and he expressed the opinion that Judge Baldwin never intended them to be. The judge said Baldwin made a practice of starting private banks, letting them fail, and then starting others. He said he had found many mortgages which Baldwin had never listed.

TUBERCULOSIS CONQUERED BY NATURE'S CREATION

RICHARD WILLIAMS

Given up to die from tuberculosis, his parents being told that his days were numbered, and then to be able to work every day, is the remarkable experience of Richard Williams. In 1910, the following story of his recovery appeared in the Indianapolis papers:

"On the 2d of last May my son Richard was taken sick, and we called in a doctor. He said Richard was suffering from abscesses, and treated him for nearly three months. While he seemed to get better in some ways he grew worse in others, and finally got so poor that his little body was nothing but a rack of bones. We then called another doctor, and they held a consultation over him, and it was found that there was a two-inch curvature of the spine also. They did not give me much encouragement, so we again changed doctors, and he said he could do nothing for him, and advised us to put him in the tuberculosis colony at the hospital. But in order to do so we had to have him examined by the tuberculosis specialists, and they would not admit him in the hospital; said he was too far gone. It was then, when the doctors had told us that they could do nothing for him, and we had given up all hopes, that a friend sent me a newspaper clipping referring to Nature's Creation. We procured a bottle of it, and commenced to give it to our boy, and we could notice a change for the better from the first bottle. He has been steadily gaining ever since—his spine is perfectly straight and he has gained in weight fifteen pounds. I will always feel so grateful to the friend that sent me that newspaper clipping and cannot praise Nature's Creation too highly, for I am sure it saved my boy's life. Mrs. L. Williams, 2341 Roosevelt avenue, Indianapolis, Ind."

OVER TWO YEARS LATER Mrs. Williams, when asked regarding her son's health, stated: "Richard is just feeling fine. He never notices any trouble at all and hasn't taken any medicine since he took Nature's Creation. He is working every day. He never complains and looks fine, and I believe is entirely well. He is very strong. Aug. 30, 1912."

Don't wait or allow your friends to wait until they become in such a condition that Nature's Creation cannot help them. Investigate today—write for valuable booklet of tuberculosis and the conditions which lead to it, such as bronchitis, impure blood, run-down system and asthma. This booklet also contains photos and testimonials from local parties and will be sent free of all charges. M. L. HAYMANN, 417 State (Life Building, Indianapolis, Indiana. (Advertisement.)

Vindictive Vandals Attack the London Mails.

London, Nov. 29.—A wholesale attack on the postal pillar boxes in the city and the west end of London last night supposedly was made by suffragettes. The destruction evidently had been carefully organized and was skillfully and silently carried out. Thousands of documents were either entirely destroyed or their addresses and contents made indecipherable. The method used was the pouring into the boxes of acid, black ink and paint. The staff of the postoffice was busy for hours sorting out the uninjured letters and trying to read the addresses of those that had been partly burned.

Among the thousands of documents affected by the vandalism were orders, checks, share certificates, contracts and agreements which are known to be irretrievably lost.

A tube showing how the fluids were inserted was found in one box. It was a section of the inner tube of a bicycle tire with one end sealed. There have been no arrests.

Three of the Philippine Islands Swept

Manila, Nov. 29.—Many lives were lost during a severe typhoon which occurred yesterday, causing immense damage to property.

The storm, which was very violent, crossed the islands of Samar, Leyte and North Panay, leaving ruin in its path. The town of Tacloban, the capital of Leyte, was practically destroyed. Two steamers were wrecked in Tacloban harbor.

How many persons were killed by falling houses, flying debris and by drowning is not known, but the loss of life is reported to have been great and the damage is estimated at several million pesos.

There is in Constantinople a persistent rumor that the Bulgars will forego their claim to Adrianople. If this turns out to be true it will no doubt hasten the time of ultimate agreement.

Joe Rivers won a decision over Joe Mandot, the New Orleans Frenchman, in a twenty-round battle at Los Angeles, becoming the logical challenger for the lightweight championship of the world, just won by Willie Ritchie.

Recommendations made by the German war office include the creation of a fleet of twenty Zeppelin airships capable of traveling fifty miles an hour, remaining aloft for four days and nights, and carrying one ton of explosives.

DEATH IS DUE TO SURGICAL SHOCK

Operation Proved Fatal to
"Dan" Ransdell.

THE END CAME UNEXPECTEDLY

Operated on After the Election at a Washington Hospital Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate Rallied Easily and Was Thought to Be Convalescing, but an Unlooked-for Setback Culminated in His Sudden Death.

Washington, Nov. 29.—As the result of an operation performed here on November 7, Colonel Daniel M. Ransdell, sergeant-at-arms of the United States senate, former United States marshal for the District of Columbia, and an intimate friend of President Harrison, is dead.

Colonel Ransdell was one of the well-known figures of public life. He had been sergeant-at-arms of the senate for nearly twelve years, having been elected to the post in January, 1900. As such officer he had practically complete charge of all official senate affairs, the issuing of subpoenas in senate inquiries and the conduct of senate functions. He will be buried at Indianapolis.

News of the death of the sergeant-at-arms caused a shock in Washington, following so closely on the death of Senator Rayner of Maryland, and of Vice President Sherman. He was operated on after the election at a local hospital. He at first rallied and was thought to be recovering, but a setback culminated in his sudden death.

A committee from the senate will accompany the body of Colonel Ransdell to Indianapolis for burial. He leaves a widow, formerly Miss Mary Cathcart of Indianapolis, two daughters and three sons, two of whom are naval officers.

POPULAR CITIZEN

Mr. Ransdell Will Be Missed Among His Indiana Friends.

Indianapolis, Nov. 29.—Daniel M. Ransdell, late sergeant-at-arms of the United States senate, was born in Indianapolis June 15, 1842, the son of John H. Ransdell. He attended college at Franklin, Ind., for three years, and when the civil war broke out entered the Union army. After the war he took a course in a business college, and then taught school for one year. In 1869 he married Miss Mary Cathcart of Indianapolis.

Local offices held by him were membership in the city council during 1872 and 1873; clerk of the Marion county courts from 1878 to 1882, and member of the board of commissioners which erected the Soldiers' and Sailors' monument. During 1884 to 1889, he was a member of the Republican state committee.

Daniel M. Ransdell was one of the most popular and well liked men the city of Indianapolis ever knew. Gentle and companionable here, he was distinguished by the same traits of character during the years of his residence in Washington city.

FAULTY BRIDGE

To This Cause Is Laid the Blame For Disastrous Wreck.

Philadelphia, Nov. 29.—The death of four persons and injuries to close to 100 more as a result of the wreck on the Pennsylvania road at Glen Loch Wednesday night, is declared to have been caused by careless bridge inspection. This charge has been made direct by Dr. H. R. Owens, chief police surgeon of Philadelphia, who was one of the first persons to arrive at the scene following the accident. Dr. Owens declares that he found that the abutments of the bridge had sunk eighteen inches. They apparently had sunk just as the two monster locomotives pulling the train had got on the bridge. The assertion of Dr. Owens is not denied by the Pennsylvania officials.

The government already has taken cognizance of the wreck, and has dispatched Chief Inspector Belknap, for the interstate commerce commission, to the scene for the purpose of making a report.

Will See Bryan Later.

Hamilton, Bermuda, Nov. 29.—Governor Wilson has written to W. J. Bryan to meet him after the president elect has returned from Bermuda. Mr. Bryan was not invited to come here.

QUICKLY FROM LEAN TO FAT

Interesting Possibilities an Outcome of Recent Experiments.

Despite the abundance of dietitians, amateur and professional, there is still room for a considerable increase of our knowledge regarding assimilation and nutrition. This is well illustrated in some recent experiments by F. G. Hopkins of the Cambridge physiological laboratory in England, the New York Evening Post remarks. Dr. Hopkins found that the addition of comparatively insignificant amounts of certain substances to his rations made all the difference between success and failure. He was feeding rats on a carefully measured and purified ration, upon which they should, theoretically, have thrived. But they refused to grow. However, when he added to the ration 4 per cent of milk they began to climb almost like the famous beanstalk.

The actual food value of the small milk addition could not be considered an explanation. The first and obvious conclusion seems to be that the milk acted as what is called a catalyst—that is, its mere presence had the power of promoting the absorption and assimilation of other food. It was proved that a small quantity of milk added to the diet reduced the quantity of the latter (used alone) necessary to produce a given increase of weight by 50 per cent.

It appears that other experimenters have obtained somewhat analogous results by the use of extracts of yeast. It is obvious enough that if these experiments mean what they seem to mean, viz., that certain substances within our reach have the remarkable power of greatly increasing the nutritive value of foods, very important results in the sciences of human and animal feeding may be expected to follow them. If, for example, by the addition of a relatively insignificant amount of some cheap catalyst the farmer can fatten his stock on half the grain ordinarily required, the steadily advancing cost of living will receive a notable check. —Chicago Record Herald.

A small supply of the remarkable substance known as "Food Catalyst" may be obtained from The Flexine Co., Indianapolis, Ind., which they will furnish with full instructions for use to persons thin in flesh and who apply before supply is exhausted, at $5.00 per package. Only one package can be furnished to each applicant until a larger supply can be obtained. Advertisement.

CALEB POWERS

Kentucky Congressman Who Married Private Secretary.

ENDED IN MARRIAGE

Culmination of Romance That Began in Newport Jail.

Newport, Ky., Nov. 29.—Congressman Caleb Powers of the Eleventh Kentucky district was married to Miss Anna Dorothy Kaufman at the home of the bride in this city. Mr. Powers is forty-six years old and his bride is twenty-six. County Judge Hawkins officiated. At the conclusion of the ceremony the couple departed for Washington.

The marriage came as the culmination of a romance that started seven years ago, when Powers, at the order of the United States court, was brought to Newport and incarcerated in the Newport jail, charged with being an accomplice in the murder of Governor William Goebel.

The windows of the cage in which he was kept a prisoner overlooked the windows of Miss Kaufman's home, and one of the first friendly faces that he saw was the pretty one of Miss Kaufman. The latter became interested in the famous political prisoner, the interest became mutual, and it was not long before flowers were sent across the street to Powers's cell.

It was not long until they met, and Miss Kaufman did much to cheer the long, weary hours that Powers spent at the Newport jail before he was returned to Georgetown for trial. Then Miss Kaufman made visits to Georgetown.

During this time Powers was twice sentenced to death and once received a life sentence. Then came the pardon extended to Powers by Governor Willson.

When Powers was elected to congress he made Miss Kaufman his private secretary. During his long fight for freedom the Kaufman family was one of Powers's strong financial supporters.

THE HOMECOMING OF ALBERT T. PATRICK

Ex-Convict's First Thought Was of Wife.

New York, Nov. 29.—Bearing the governor's pardon, a free man for the first time in the twelve eventful years he was the shuttlecock of the law, when Albert T. Patrick stepped out the stone-arched doorway of Sing Sing prison he showed that he was capable of human emotions. That was when he said that he was going, first of all, to the wife who was ill and weak. Then his ordinarily emotionless voice broke and his eyes became suffused with tears. He was going to her first of all, and the great plans for the vindication of his name would have to wait until after he greeted her and comforted her as one who had just returned from the grave.

An auto which pressed the speed limit very close brought him to 180 Clermont avenue without a stop, and the elevator of the apartment house was waiting to take him to the floor where the woman who never lost hope was waiting. A daughter, a child when Patrick came into the court twelve years ago, a woman grown now, also was waiting, but to her it was like receiving one from the grave, like an answer to a prayer.

Government Files Its Brief.

Washington, Nov. 29.—Contending that congress has not abridged the freedom of the press by the legislation contained in the last postoffice appropriation bill, which requires newspapers to make statements of circulation, ownership and paid advertising and to meet other requirements before being admitted to the mails as second class matter, the solicitor general has filed a brief in the United States supreme court in opposition to the arguments set out heretofore in briefs filed on behalf of the Journal of Commerce and other publishers, who are attacking the constitutionality of the law.

GAME WAS WON IN LAST PERIOD

Maxwells "Got to" Rushville in Final Quarter, Taking Contest by a 25 to 0 Score.

FIRST HALF A REAL BATTLE

Locals Lost Opportunity to Score From Five Yard Line—Cork Pulled Toward Last.

Rushville went down in defeat before the Maxwell team of New Castle in the annual "turkey day" game by the score of 25 to 0. Twenty-five points at first glance seems to be a bad defeat, but the score in this game is no indication of the kind of battle that Maxwell went through in order to beat the locals.

Maxwell won the game in the third and fourth quarters. The first touchdown was made near the close of the third period and the other three were made in the final minutes of play. The strong Maxwell team was up against real foot ball in the first half of the game. The two teams were evenly matched until the final quarter, when Rushville pulled the old cork and the ginger ran out. The Newcastle team took advantage of the weakened condition of the locals and piled up the score.

The teams fought to a draw the first half, neither team scoring. Neither goal was in danger the first quarter but in the second Rushville had its only opportunity for a touchdown and failed. In this second period the Newcastle team was clearly outplayed. The locals advanced the ball from the center of the field on line plunges. Constant battering on the Maxwell line brought the ball within five yards of the goal. With first down and the goal to make an end run netted a loss of 10 yards and 5 yards more was lost on the next play. The locals were forced to punt and Gunning tried a drop kick, which went wide the mark.

Maxwell resorted to straight foot ball with end runs featuring. Rushville pulled off several forward passes which kept the large crowd guessing. No big gains were made with the forward pass as almost every time Todd was downed in his tracks. The Rushville team weakened in the fourth period and by constant hammering on the line Newcastle won what was by no means an easy victory.

On the Newcastle team were two men, who showed up head and shoulders above their team mates. These two men were Clark Stough and "Red" Goodman. Doc Stough at quarter-back proved a good general and put up a fine defensive game. Goodman was a bear. He was called upon time and time again to hit the line and very seldom failed to gain. "Red" took a lot of punishment but always came out grinning. The Rushville backfield, Wooster, Mattox and Buell, played in brilliant form. In the Rushville line one man was seen above the rest, that was Capp. He was mixed up in about nine out of every ten plays. In fact the right side of the line held better than the left.

Newcastle was penalized frequently for off side plays and holding in the line. Probably a total of seventy-five yards was lost on penalties. Rushville lost but it was some game to lose and the 500 fans were well satisfied. The line up:

Newcastle—Crandall, (Capt.) L. E.; Appleton, Wright, L. T.; Phelps, L. G. Havens, C.; Procter, R. G.; Schuyler, R. T.; Robbins, R. E.; Stough, Q.; Goodman, R. H. B.; Adams, L. H. B.; Dougherty, F. B. Rushville—Brann, Petry, L. E.; Glover, Petry, L. T.; Downey, L. G.; Geraghty, C.; Carroll, R. G.; Capp, R. T.; Todd, R. E.; Gunning, Q.; Woodster, Brann, R. H. B.; Mattox, L. H. B.; Buell, F. B.

Touchdowns—Stough, 2; Adams 2. Goals, Stough, 1. Time of quarters, 15 minutes. Referee, Sparks. Umpire Walton, Head linesman Green.

FORMER FISH VENDER HAS METHOD FOR GYPSIE LIFE

while being the propelling power of the moving home, also serves as a sort of attic or store house. Stacked neatly away under a wide expanse of canvass which covered the truck were such things as a sewing machine, wash tubs and a boiler, a large stock of food to last several weeks, a trunk in which their summer clothes are packed, and other odds and ends and nick nacs which one might desire on a trip of this sort.

True, you say, Scolds was a fish vender in Fort Wayne, but this is no fish story, you must understand. Scolds made his little stake at fish vending, and now he and his family are out to enjoy the life that suits them best.

The house on wheels, which runs on a solid gear and rests on a double set of springs that makes riding in it a joy forever, is hitched on behind the motor truck and is whisked over the roads at a merry gate. While traveling thirty miles an hour, the four children can enjoy the scenery, play with their toys or do anything they desire, and Mrs. Scolds, all she has to do is to keep the one room tidy and neat.

Heat? Meriads of it. Light? All any fanatic on the subject could desire. Sleeping facilities? Their plan beats a sleeping porch a hundred ways at least. They have a double sleeping bunk affair in the back end of the wagon where they can get all the fresh air they desire. There is a good-sized wood stove in one corner of the "house" which amply heats the apartment. Their dining table is a folding affair which can be put out of the way when the meals are not the order of business.

"We are taking our time," commented Mr. Scolds this morning. This is proved by the fact that they have been seven days traveling the hundred and eight miles from Fort Wayne.

"We have just given this life one week's trial, and I confess that I like it. We only made eight miles yesterday. We stopped along the road several times and I had a regular Thanksgiving Day hunt. I expect to kill enough game to keep us in meat."

Just then Mrs. Scolds stepped out of the front door of the house and told husband that baby wanted a drink of water. Husband went into the store house, drew up a cup of water from the good canteen and handed it to her.

Then he cranked up and the home of Scolds was in action. Mrs. Scold's face beamed when she heard the purr of the motor. She looked like she couldn't imagine a more pleasant life.

SAYS HUSBAND IS TOO FILTHY

Fannie Brookbank of Orange Township Says Ira W. Brookbank Seldom Bathes.

DIVORCE COMPLAINT TODAY

Asks $7,000 Alimony and Order Restraining Husband From Doing Her Violence.

Alleging that her husband has knocked her front teeth out during fits of anger, that he has compelled her to build fence and do other manual labor about the farm, and that he has stunted her so that she has been compelled to go without sufficient clothing and to furnish provisions for her home, Mrs. Fannie Brookbank of Orange township brought suit in the circuit court this afternoon against her husband, Ira W. Brookbank.

She demands $7,000 alimony and a restraining order from Judge Blair to restrain him from doing violence to her body. She demands in addition that her husband be restrained from disposing of or selling any of his property and that order be made for him to deliver her clothes to her as she has not sufficient wearing apparel now to keep her warm. She also would like to get her chickens from the farm, as she maintains they will die if they are not cared for.

One of the reasons for applying for a decree, Mrs. Brookbank says is that her husband is filthy and never takes a bath. He has refused to bathe and has gone about the premises and elsewhere, the complaint says, with such old ragged, filthy clothing upon his person as to cause his wife great humiliation.

She alleges she has been compelled to furnish provisions for the home for the last two years, though afflicted with chronic disease. The complainant says Brookbank has frequently ordered his wife from his house, with threats of violence, and has said he wished she would get a divorce.

The complaint sets forth the personal property owned by husband and wife and declares further Brookbank owns a hundred-acre farm worth $15,000. She asks an allowance of five hundred dollars for attorney fees.

She declares that she has not enough clothes to go out and feed the chickens, and that she is afraid to go home after them because of her husband's past actions.

The final split in their relations came Tuesday, according to the complaint, when Brookbank knocked his wife down. She declares he has spoken to her very little in the last four years except to abuse and vilify her and curse her and call her vile and improper names.

EITHER INSANE OR CRAZY DRUNK

Mike Mosier Goes Wrong in the "Noodle" and Flourishes Revolver—Lands in Jail.

HAS PLENTY OF EXCITEMENT

Mike Mosier, employed until yesterday on the Peter Schobin farm near Sexton, is in jail awaiting an insanity inquest. Mosier suddenly became insane yesterday morning and before he was brought here, the neighborhood was in a high state of excitement. He labored under the impression that someone was after him and securing a revolver, started out to get his supposed enemy.

Mosier fired twice in the air and before he was quieted a call was sent here to the police. Policemen Wolter and Hall and Deputy sheriff Verl Bebout went to Sexton but the people there wouldn't let the officers arrest him for fear someone would get shot. Dr. Bowen of Occident succeeded in bringing Mosier here. It is thought his insanity is only temporary and due to bad liquor.

PREACHES AT GWYNNEVILLE

The Shelbyville Democrat says the Rev. S. M. Hawthorne, formerly pastor of the Gwynneville Christian church who has figured in several rather sensational episodes, has been vindicated by the action of the judge of the Howard circuit court at Kokomo who released him after his arrest at the home of David Wicker in this county a week ago yesterday on an affidavit, charging non-support, filed by his wife in Kokomo.

The Rev. Mr. Hawthorne returned to Gwynneville one night this week and preached the postponed sermon he was to have preached the night of his arrest. He was in bed ill at the home of the Rush county farmer where he had been husking corn as a means of livelihood. The Rev. Mr. Hawthorne tells his friends that he is persecuted by his wife who will not allow him to hold a pastorate any time without stirring up trouble. It is said that he has been called to a small church near Kokomo.

"I AM GLAD" SAYS A CONTRIBUTOR

One Man Who Helped Make Youngsters Happy Last Year, is in Fold Again.

YULETIDE SPIRIT IN THE AIR

Already Pairs of Longing Little Eyes Are Gazing Into Tempting Shop Windows.

"I was glad to read that announcement in the Republican last night that you are going to have another Santa Clause fund this year," said a man today who has been a contributor to the fund every year.

That expresses the sentiment of many people who have thought it time that the opening of the fund be announced since the Yuletide season is approaching, and the Christmas spirit permeates the air.

Merchants have begun advertising their Christmas wares and already many pairs of longing little eyes have been gazing into shop windows inspecting the many tempting things that ingenious minds have prepared for the Christmas trade.

Many of those anxious eyes will not have the joy of looking on those self-same articles Christmas morning without the aid of the kind hearted people who have in the past contributed to the Daily Republican Santa Clause fund. Theirs will be a cold and cheerless Christmas morn if the goodfellows (both male and female) do not come to the rescue and help the managers of the fund with a few cents, a few dollars, or any amount they can spare.

The fund will be conducted in much the same way it was last year. The penny boxes will be placed in prominent public places to afford people who do not care to send their contributions by mail or bring them to the office an opportunity to add their mite to the fund that is to make the poor little children of Rushville happy.

Charity workers who have been in the local field for years will make a systematic canvass of the city and learn the names of the little children who are in need, and who will entertain no hope for a merry Christmas without the aid of the Santa Clause fund contributors.

In so far as is possible all cases will be investigated to learn if the children really will be without any Christmas unless the Santa Clause fund wagon stops at their door with a package. Some times there are instances where the parents are shiftless and unworthy of assistance, but the fact still remains that their children will be received now at any time. They may be mailed, left at the office or dispatched by any person. The first list of contributors will be published early next week and from then on every day until the fund is closed.

POSEY FUNERAL SATURDAY.

The funeral of Mrs. Sarah E. Posey, who died yesterday, will be held at the late residence Saturday afternoon at one-thirty o'clock by the Rev. V. W. Tevis and the Rev. W. H. Wylie. Burial will take place in East Hill cemetery.

REMAINS BROUGHT HERE.

The remains of B. F. Treadway, who died Wednesday in Indianapolis were brought here this afternoon for burial. The funeral services were conducted in the chapel at East Hill cemetery by the Rev. C. M. Yeoman. He is survived by a widow and one son, G. E. Treadway.

TWO MEN HURT IN ACCIDENTS

Sam Gallimore Suffers Broken Bones When Horses Run Away in Barn Lot Today.

DR. SHAUCK'S BUSY MORNING

Finds Froman Gardner, Along Road With Finger Chopped Off, While on Way Home.

Dr. J. G. Shauck of Arlington had a busy morning this morning, waiting on two injured people in a few hours. He was called to dress the injuries of Sam Gallimore, living about half way between Arlington and Rushville, early today, and while on the way home from that trip found Froman Gardner lying along the road badly injured.

Gallimore was preparing to leave his home for a days work on the farm this morning, and had left his team of horses hitched to a big farm wagon, standing in the barn lot when a cow came running around the barn and frightened the animals.

The horses started to run and Gallimore made an attempt to stop them. He got to their heads and made a wild grab for the reins in order to check their speed before they tore the wagon up. He missed the reins and his grasp fell on the stay chains and held on tight.

The horses crashed into a fence post shortly afterwards and Gallimore was hurled against the post with terrific force. The bone in the upper part of his right arm was broken, his forearm was very badly lacerated and his body was bruised.

Froman Gardner was working on the grade just east of Arlington this morning when he was very painfully hurt in an accident that the workmen said could not be avoided. In the mishap his ring finger on his right hand was cut squarely off at the knuckle joint.

The gang of men were grubbing sycamore trees. Louis Gowdy was

Over 200 Already Enrolled For Farmers' Short Course at Cambridge City in February.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE FEATURE

The executive committee of the Farmers' Short Course to be held in Cambridge City, Feb. 3, 4 and 5, met this week and completed some of the preliminary details of the work. The programs, posters and tickets will be published at once and an active canvass begun. The chairmen of the various standing committees reported very flattering prospects for a large attendance. Above 200 names have been reported for enrollment as students and patrons. The adjoining counties of Fayette, Henry and Rush are reported as taking great interest in the school. The ladies in the country as well as in town are taking unusual interest in the Domestic Science course which will be conducted by Miss Roberta McNeil, one of Purdue's best experts in that line of work. The committee on Domestic Science promises to make the women's department one of the most interesting and profitable possible. "No woman who aspires to the best for the home can afford to miss this course."

swinging a heavy sharp instrument in cutting off roots, and in one blow, instead of striking a root, he hit Gardner's hand. The bone was cut off as neatly as if it had been done by an experienced surgeon.

The companions of Gardner rendered him all the aid they could and he was lying along the road suffering intense pain when Dr. Shauck happened to be passing along the way from the Arbuckle farm where Gallimore lives. He took Gardner in his automobile and hauled him on to Arlington where the wounded hand was dressed.

WILL HAVE TURKEY FOR YEARS TO COME

Dr. F. M. Sparks Wins Three of Seven Turkeys Hung on Wire at Morristown Shoot.

LOCAL MARKSMEN GET SIX

Dr. Frank M. Sparks will have turkey for several Thanksgiving days to come, thanks to his accurate eye and his steady nerve. He won three of the seven turkeys awarded at the turkey day shoot, given by the Morristown Gun club yesterday.

In fact members of the Rushville Gun club literally "cleaned up" at the Thanksgiving day shoot. Rushville marksmen won six of the seven turkeys which were offered as prizes to the best men with guns. Dr. Sparks led with three, Willard King was second with two and Earl Bever was third with one turkey. They kindly left the other turkey for members of the Morristown club and members of other clubs to fight over.

Several members of the local club attended the shoot, and today they were profuse in their praise of the Morristown sportsmen and the entertainment which they give visitors.

SOME CORN HUSKING FEAT

Everett Black Shucks an Average of 129 Bushels Per Day.

Everett Black, a farm laborer who is slight of stature but has muscle like flint, seems to have pushed all records for corn husking into the background. It is reported that in a little less than four days recently he shucked 483 bushels of corn, which is a fraction less than 129 bushels a day. James W. Rhodes, on whose farm in Center township this unusual feat was performed, and another man shucked in the same field with Black, but they could not keep insight of him. Black hails from Kokomo.

PREPARING FOR PARCELS POST

BECOMES EFFECTIVE JAN. 1

Eggs and Dressed Fowls Can Be Shipped From the Farm, Commission Decides.

In common with all postoffices of the United States the Rushville postoffice will start the parcels post system the first of next January.

The parcels post commission has just decided that meats, eggs and dressed fowls will be carried through the mails from the farm to the city consumer under the Lewis "farm products" provision of the parcels post bill.

The scheme is one which, it is said, will go a long way toward breaking down the high price of eggs in the city. The poultry man on the farm, it is pointed out, can advertise in the city newspapers for customers for about a dozen eggs once or twice a week, delivery by parcels post. At the present time the price of eggs in the cities is nearly three times greater than it is in the country. The same schemes regarding dressed fowls can be worked, by which the city consumer can be delivered at his door a dressed chicken at a little over half what it costs retail in the city. The city butcher, on the other hand, with the meat crate that has been provided for him, can send to the urban resident or farmer every morning a roast or steak.

Manufacturers have submitted to the commission a scheme for lightweight corrugated paper boxes in which these articles can be packed for transportation without fear of damage. The egg crate is made of strong corrugated pasteboard. It has square partitions for each egg, and the scheme is one which the postal experts declare will enable the poultry men in the country to ship eggs to any part of the United States. Boxes have also been made for meats and dressed fowls.

With the establishment of these facilities the postal experts declare it now remains with the city merchants and the poultry man and trucker in the country to extend their trade through the medium of the parcels post.

The parcels post commission has also worked out the insurance regulation by which valuable packages sent by city merchants to their urban trade can be indemnified in case of loss. This means that the insurance provision of the law will be put into

A dramatic event of unusual importance will be the appearance at the Shubert Múrat Theatre, Indianapolis, for the week beginning Monday, December 2d, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday, of Henry W. Savage's dramatic spectacle, "Everywoman." It will be remembered that "Everywoman" is a dramatic novelty and is in reality partly opera, partly musical comedy, partly drama, with a huge spectacular setting. Over 150 people appear in the production and are required to work the various mechanical and electrical effects. In addition there is an entire symphony orchestra and a cast of players which includes fully a score of names known to the seasoned playgoers. "Everywoman" has been endorsed by the clergy and the press and editorial writers throughout

America, and has been the subject of more discussion than any other production in the last twenty years. Besides providing entertainment, delighting the eye and the ear, it presents a moral lesson which is timely and beneficial.

The title role will be played by Adele Blood, a young woman of keen dramatic instincts and remarkable blond beauty. Miss Blood had the distinction of playing the role over 200 nights in New York and received the unanimous endorsement of every one of New York's dramatic critics. She is one of the most photographed and best dressed woman of the stage. In the third act of "Everywoman" she wears a marvelous gown of cloth of gold which was made for her this summer in Paris by Paquin. The cost of this gown was $3,800. It is a significant fact that Henry W. Savage considers "Everywoman" the most ambitious and successful production he has ever made. It represents an expenditure of over $60,000.

Over three million people have witnessed it during the last two years, and it is now being performed in five different languages in as many countries.

"Everywoman" was written by Walter Brown, a poorly-paid New York newspaper man, who died on the morning of the day of its first performance. It is an interesting fact to know that the royalties accruing therefrom have made his widow and three children, who were left penniless, rich.

THE PENALTY OF INCOMPETENCY

"Young Turks" Have Been Put Out of Office.

THE CONSTITUTION ABROGATED

Reverting to the Old Forms of Absolutism, Turkish Cabinet, After Long Planning and Seizing the Opportunity Presented by the War, Has Effected a Change of Government Over Night Without Protest From People.

Vienna, Nov. 29.—The peace parliaments now proceeding at Tschatalja between the commissioners of the allies and the Turkish plenipotentiaries are not promising. The proposals on both sides are irreconcilable. The Bulgarians are preparing for the resumption of hostilities by commencing next year's recruits and the Servian auxiliaries, who are already marching to the front.

Constantinople, Nov. 29.—A resolution has been passed by the cabinet declaring that "inasmuch as four years' test has proved that constitutional government is neither suitable nor effective in the case of the Ottoman empire, the government, in the highest interests of the empire, has decided on the abrogation of the constitution."

A state council containing a number of Christian members will be invested with a portion of the legislative powers of parliament. The government, however, will not be responsible to the state council. The announcement of an imperial irade enforcing this resolution evidently was the result of long, careful planning. Everything indicated that the absolutists had been awaiting their opportunity for months. The war with the Balkan allies furnished this opportunity.

The Young Turks were wonderfully clever as conspirators, but none of them had administrative ability. Instead of devoting themselves to the business of real reform when they gained control of the government, they played politics. They were theorists and each had a different theory of government which he insisted on trying. The result was complete disorganization of the governmental machinery. The war revealed the almost unbelievable thoroughness with which they had wrecked one of the finest military establishments in the world, proving to everyone their incompetency.

Sultan a Mere Puppet.

Even those who originally favored constitutional government could not but admit today that any change from Young Turkish rule would be an improvement. For the present, at any rate, it seemed unlikely that the latest revolution would meet with the least opposition.

That the change will mean anything to the present sultan was regarded as very unlikely. He has been ever since his elevation to the throne a mere puppet in the hands of whatever group was in control of the government, and will probably serve the absolutists as satisfactorily as he did the constitutionalists when they were in power.

Preparations for the step had been made very carefully. For days past the authorities have been quietly gathering in the Young Turkish leaders and transferring them to places of confinement on the Asiatic side of the Bosphorus. Constitutionalists in high army posts have been gradually weeded out, and men who were known to believe popular government poorly adapted to Turkish requirements put in their places. Nazim Pasha, minister of war and active commander of the army, has always opposed the Young Turks. Enver Bey, the ablest man in the Young Turkish organization, has been in Tripoli since soon after the outbreak of the war with Italy.

EUROPE FACES CRISIS

War Cloud So Long Threatening Now Promises to Break.

London, Nov. 29.—Europe today may be on the verge of general warfare. The long feared crisis came with the capture of Durazzo, in Albania, by the Servian troops. The Servians entered this port on the Adriatic, which Austria is determined Serbia shall not have. In the face of a virtual ultimatum from Vienna, if Austria carries out its threat to fight, warfare that will involve practically every power in Europe is considered inevitable. The Servians offered no resistance at Durazzo. An Austrian steamer which was in the harbor departed immediately with a number of refugees after the Servians entered the town.

A few days more may spell the future of the big powers of Europe. Behind Austria, in its demand that Albania shall retain its autonomy, is Italy and Germany, while the Servians are backed by the triple entente, England, Russia and France. Russia already is known to be making preparations for war, and although military news from Austria is under strict censorship it is known that Austrian troops have been partially mobilized, and that the strongholds along the Russian border line have been strengthened materially within the last few days.

Lesson IX.—Fourth Quarter, For Dec. 1, 1912.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Mark ix, 14-29.
Memory Verses, 28, 29—Golden Text,
Mark ix, 23 (R. V.)—Commentary
Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

For a little while heaven and earth had touched in a new way, by those who had once lived on earth, but had been long absent from it, one by death and one by translation. When the risen and translated saints shall be reigning with Christ in His kingdom (Rev. v, 9, 10; xx, 4) this will probably be the ordinary, everyday occurrence everywhere, the New Jerusalem from heaven and the one on earth in perfect accord, the glorified church and redeemed Israel, the heavenly and earthly centers of His kingdom, when a king shall reign in righteousness and the work of righteousness shall be peace and the nations shall learn war no more (Isa. xxxii, 1, 17; ii, 4).

As the devil was in control at the foot of the mountain when Jesus and His disciples came down and the disciples there could not conquer him, so it shall be when Jesus Christ shall come in His glory; then He shall bind the strong man, whom the church cannot cast out, and shut him up in the pit and take control of his property, for till then the whole world shall continue in the wicked one as the prince of this world. Let those who would understand take the trouble to ponder, with prayer and meekness and submission to the word of God, the following passages, for it is all important to understand this present age, its ruler and his doom: I John v, 19, R. V.; John xiv, 30; II Cor. iv, 4; Eph. ii, 2; II Thess. ii, 7-10; Dan. vii, 25; xl, 35, 36; xii, 1, 10; Rev. xiii, 7, 8; xvii, 14; xix, 19, 20; xx, 1-5.

Turning back from this faraway look to the particular incidents of the lesson, we note that it is not in order for us to continue too long in any place of special privilege when there is work to be done and people in distress needing us at the foot of the hill. Special times and places of special revelations of Himself to us are to fit us to be better witnesses unto Him with increasing victory over the world, the flesh and the devil. If the prayer meeting, the Bible class, the Bible conference and such times and places of fellowship with Him do not enable us, in the days following, to show more of His presence and power in the home, the place of business, the social life, where is the benefit? People say, "I was so blessed, I had such an uplift, it did me so much good." Well, thank God, but now show it in your life and you won't need to tell it, and, if your life does not show it, better say nothing about it. The spirit through James teaches us that faith that is mere talk amounts to nothing; there must be works corresponding to our faith for the sake of those who do not understand.

John says, "My little children, let us not love in word, neither in tongue, but in deed and in truth" (I John iii). The story of this demoniac boy is written briefly in Matthew and Luke, but most fully in Mark. Luke tells us that he was an only child and that when he was healed Jesus delivered him again to his father (Luke ix, 38, 42). An only child given to Jesus' hands is given back better than when He received him, made perfectly whole. He is the same yesterday, today and forever, this same Jesus.

Take in this scene as well as you can—a great multitude, a distressed father, a sorely afflicted only child, some disciples of Jesus truly saved who had on other occasions wrought miracles, but now are helpless. "They could not cure him."

Did you ever see yourself, a true follower of Jesus, yet powerless to show something of Him to those who know Him not and unable to help those who need help? Did you say from the heart, "Why could not I?" And did you hear Him say, "Because of your unbelief?" (Matt. xvii, 20). And have you been wondering since if you really knew what it means to "have faith in God?" Then what about the prayer and fasting necessary in some cases? Oh, how much there is to learn, and how many seem to have a dumb spirit or an evil spirit of some kind, that seems too often to control us.

"Bring him hither to me" is about what He said concerning the bread when He fed the thousands. "Come unto me" is His cry to all the weary and heavy laden, and we may well say, "Lord, to whom shall we go but unto Thee?" (Matt. xi, 28; John vi, 68.) This evil spirit had long sought to destroy this child, and now he made a last effort. The devil has always been and still is a destroyer, a devourer, a murderer, but the Lord is the life giver, the deliverer, the Saviour.

Hear the father's cry, "If thou canst do anything!" His disciples failed. Could He do better? People who do not know the Lord judge Him by His followers. Are we bringing Him honor or reproach? Jesus said unto him, "If thou canst believe, all things are possible to him that believeth" (verse 23). "Lord, I believe," cried the father. Jesus rebuked the spirit and commanded him to come out of him. Ere he did so he rent him sore and left him as one dead, but he departed out of him. Jesus took him by the hand and lifted him up, and he arose and was cured from that very hour. Our Lord does not give the same power to all, but to each one severally as He will.

HELD TO ANSWER FOR MURDER OF HEIRESS

The Two Conways Indicted at Chicago.

Chicago, Nov. 29.—An indictment charging Charles Conway, the circus clown and wooden legged high diver, and Beatrice Ryall Conway, vaudeville actress and lion tamer, with the murder of Miss Sophia Singer, Baltimore heiress, has been returned before Judge Kersten. The two were held without bail.

The Singer woman was murdered on Oct. 28. Her body, bound and gagged, was found in a rooming house. She had been struck on the head with a doorknob wrapped in cloth. Her money, about $45, and clothing belonging to her and to her fiancé, a Baltimore streetcar conductor, was stolen. The Conways were caught after being trailed across Indiana, to Lima, O., at the home of Conway's mother.

LOST ON FOUL

Ad Wolgast Relinquishes Championship to Willie Ritchie.

San Francisco, Nov. 29.—Wildly excited throngs of fight fans at Daly City carried from the roped arena their first pugilistic lightweight champion. Willie Ritchie was hoisted on the shoulders of his supporters and 7,000 spectators made the hills echo with their exulting shouts.

With the sixteenth round having only two seconds to go, Champion Wolgast fouled Ritchie and the referee was quick to raise the local lad's glove in token of victory. The disqualification came after Ritchie had floored Wolgast twice. Whether the foul was intentional or not was the theme of discussion among thousands as they left the arena.

In the sixteenth Ritchie rushed Wolgast and landed a fierce right across to the jaw which sent Wolgast to the ropes. Again Ritchie whipped his right across and Wolgast went down. He got up groggy and after taking another right to the jaw, he delivered the two fouls that cost him the fight.

What Republicans Leave.

In turning over the control of the affairs of the country to another party the Republicans have the pleasure of reporting everything in solvent shape, with prosperity at high tide in all the states and outlying possessions. Another item to which attention is called by an official statement sets forth the fact that the foreign trade of the United States for the year 1912 will pass the four-billion line for the first time. When the Dingley law was passed in 1897 it was said that the return to a protective policy would cripple our foreign trade and set the world against us to our heavy loss. What really happened was a great and general increase. Our foreign trade in 1897, the total of exports and imports, was $1,810,000,000. It passed $2,000,000,000 in 1899, $3,000,000,000 in 1906, and will exceed $4,000,000,000 in the present calendar year.

This advance would have been called progressiveness before the word fell into frenkish disrepute comments the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. It is enough now to refer to it as solid progress. All has occurred under protective tariffs, one of which is still in force, though shortly to be sapped and mined by a minority of voters invested with complete authority by pluralities in a three-sided fight. A majority of voters supported protective platforms in the recent contest but this majority must go into the background for the next two years. They hand over the reins of power with an excellent record, and, what is even better, a good conscience. The Republican party does not consider the year 1912 a barren one for itself. In national convention assembled it rejected a third-term movement for the second time. It would rather stand by its principles and be defeated than go into any form of demagoguery for the sake of expediency. In two former years it was retired. But how quickly and gladly the people recalled it!

They Are Unpopular.

November and December are not popular months. Their penetrating winds are called sour and churlish by a steam heated generation.

The man who lives close to nature knows better. There are suggestions both of power and of peace in the landscape and the silence of a late autumn twilight.

The springtime with its bird songs, its voices of labor, conveys its restless ideas of frolic, of motion, of struggle, and of toil. The stillness of an autumn twilight is the peace of warfare accomplished, of achievements concluded. The old earth has gathered together its forces, and waits in supreme confidence the onslaughts of the North Wind.

The leafless tree lacks the flickering beauty of spring. But its firm articulation against a glowing sky suggests well ordered power. Seen in a mass a distance, under the dull rays of a low sun, the "tremulous green is replaced by a dull grey brown, suggestive of reserve strength. Silent peace fills the heart of the traveler as he draws homeward through the crisp landscape. There is wine in the air, there is spring in the foot-step, and the silence of nature is not that of decay, but of fruition and preparation for a future rebirth.

As Gov. Wilson has received only 100,000 applications for office, the other 14,900 voters will have to hurry up if they expect receive favorable consideration before March 4.

If the President will talk about nice, pleasant, and remote subject like the canals of Mars, no doubt Congress will listen to his message.

It would never do to put Col. Gotha on one of these jobs of river and harbor improvement. He might get it done sometime.

HOOSIER GAME IS VERY SCARCE

J. J. Bravery, State Warden, Declares
Severe Winter Last Year is The Cause.

MANY QUAIL WERE STARVED

Birds More Plentiful in Communities
Where Farmers Take Trouble to Feed Them.

That game is scarce throughout Indiana was the asserion of J. J. Bravery of Anderson, deputy state game warden, while in Newcastle. He stated that he never in his recollection knew of such a small number of quail and rabbits.

"The scarcity of the birds is due to the extreme cold of last winter," said Mr. Bravery. "The quail froze and starved by the thousands and consequently the stock of birds was greatly reduced and a parent stock was not on hand last summer to cause the feathered population to multiply.

"Quails as a rule are hary provided they can get feed. With sufficient food they will be able to withstand the greatest cold. Many farmers are feeding the birds during the winter months and it is a great help to them. If every farmer would do that the number would soon greatly increase. The cold weather kills more quail each year than the hunters and as the birds are a great help to the farmers by their destruction of insects the feeding in winter should be more broadcast.

"I believe that there is more quail in Jay county than any other county in eastern Indiana. The farmers there almost to a man provide food for the birds during the winter months and consequently they have survived the hard climates and are rapidly multiplying.

"The rabbit supply is low also because of last season's cold weather. The heavy rains in the spring also drowned thousands of the young rabbits."

Warden Bravery is traveling all over Indiana watching for violations of the State game laws. This is the time of year when violations of the game law are commonest because the open season is on and many hunters are in the fields every day. Warden Bravery generally comes into a community unannounced.

operation when the parcels post is inaugurated in January. The collection delivery system has not yet been perfected, but the experts expect to originate a scheme for returning the money collected on delivery of packages without much bookkeeping on the part of the government.

Some of the experts believe that the parcels post collection delivery business will eventually bring fractional currency. If this is done, they assert, the problem of returning money will not be hard to solve.

Steps were taken by Postmaster-General Hitchcock to ascertain just to what extent city and town merchants intend to use the parcels post. To postmasters circulars have been sent that contain a number of questions which, when answered, give the department detailed information as to any particular city, town or locality showing the average number of fourth-class parcels now mailed; the number that will probably be mailed when the parcels post law becomes effective, together with the average weight of the parcels and their average size; what proportion of the entire number will be for local delivery, and whether they will be mailed in large quantities at frequent intervals or in regular daily mailings; what percentage of the parcels will be insured, registered, made up of perishable or fragile articles and whether when the "C. O. D." feature is placed in operation any considerable portion of the parcels will be sent by that method.

The extent to which the parcels' post will be used is problematical. It is expected that it will be greatly used and that in the future many articles which have been delivered through other mediums will be delivered through the postal service.

Postmaster Frazee and his subordinates are busying themselves with the instructions which have been sent them from the postmaster general's office, and will endeavor to be fully informed on all details of the new system by the time the date arrives for putting it into operation.

The act of congress creating the parcels' post contains the following statement setting out just what kind of articles shall be transmittable by the service:

"Hereafter fourth-class mail matter shall embrace all other matter, including farm and factory products, not now embraced by law in either the first, second or third class, not exceeding eleven pounds in weight, nor greater in size than seventy-two inches in length and girth combined, nor in form or kind likely to injure the person of any postal employee or damage the mail equipment or other mail matter and not a character perishable within a period reasonably required for transportation and delivery."

The foregoing statement should be studied carefully by every person, for it reveals precisely for what purposes the parcels' post can be used. In this connection every person should bear in mind the following facts:

1. That distinctive parcels' post stamps must be used on all fourth-class matter beginning January 1, 1913, and that such matter bearing ordinary postage stamps will be treated as "Held for Postage."

2. That parcels will be mailable only at postoffices, branch postoffices, lettered and local-named stations, and such numbered stations as may be designated by the postmaster.

3. That all parcels must bear the return card of the sender; otherwise they will not be accepted for mailing.

Importance of familiarity with the three foregoing provisions doubtless will be instantly apparent to everybody. It must be understood that ordinary postage stamps absolutely can not be used for mailing fourth class mailmatter; parcels' post stamps must be used. Fourth class mail matter can not be mailed by dropping it into letter boxes or other receptacles for mail matter which for the convenience of the public are placed throughout the town or along rural routes. Such matter must be mailed at the postoffice or at some one of the stations indicated by the department. Furthermore, no package will be accepted for transmission and delivery by parcels' post that does not bear the return address of the sender.

The cost of the delivery of mail matter by parcels' post regulated by distance. For this purpose the United States and its several territories and possessions, not including the Philippine Islands, shall be divided into units represented on appropriate postal maps, and such units of area shall be the basis of eight postal zones. The first zone embraces all the territory within a mean radial distance of fifty miles from the center of a given unit or area; the second zone includes the territory outside the first zone and within 150 miles of the given center of area; the third zone embraces the territory between the 150-mile and 300-mile radial distances; the fourth zone that between the 300-mile and 600-mile radial distances; the fifth zone that between the 600-mile and 1,000-mile radial distances; the sixth zone that between the 1,000-mile and 1,400-mile radial distance; the seventh zone that between the 1,400-mile and 1,800-mile radial distance; the eighth zone shall include all units of area outside the seventh zone.

The provisions as to the postage rates for each of the eight zones are as follows:

That the rate of postage on fourth-class matter weighing not more than four ounces shall be one cent each ounce or fraction of an ounce; and on such matter in excess of four ounces in weight the rate shall be by the pound, as hereinafter provided, the postage in all cases to be prepaid by distinctive postage stamps affixed.

That except as provided in the next preceding paragraph postage on matter of the fourth-class shall be prepaid at the following rates:

On all matter mailed at the postoffice from which a rural route starts, for delivery on such route, or mailed at any point on such route for delivery at any other point thereon, or at the office from which the route starts or on any rural route, starting therefrom, and on all matter mailed at a city carrier office, or at any point within its delivery limits, for delivery by carriers from that office, or at any office for local delivery, five cents for the first pound or fraction of a pound and one cent for each additional pound or fraction of a pound.

For delivery within the first zone, except as provided in the next preceding paragraph, five cents for the first pound or fraction of a pound and three cents for each additional pound or fraction of a pound.

For delivery within the second zone, six cents for the first pound or fraction of a pound and four cents for each additional pound or fraction of a pound.

For delivery within the third zone, seven cents for the first pound or fraction of a pound and five cents for each additional pound or fraction of a pound.

For delivery within the fourth zone, eight cents for the first pound or fraction of a pound and six cents for each additional pound or fraction of a pound.

For delivery within the fifth zone, nine cents for the first pound or fraction of a pound and seven cents for each additional pound or fraction of a pound.

For delivery within the sixth zone, ten cents for the first pound or fraction of a pound and nine cents for each additional pound or fraction of a pound.

For delivery within the seventh zone, eleven cents for the first pound or fraction of a pound and ten cents for each additional pound or fraction of a pound.

For delivery within the eighth zone, and between the Philippine Islands and any portion of the United States, including the District of Columbia and the several territories and possessions, twelve cents for the first pound or fraction of a pound and twelve cents for each additional pound or fraction of a pound.

To what extent the parcels' post will increase the work in the local postoffice can not at this time be foreseen. The amount of the labor will depend of course on the extent to which the service is used.

CHARLES G. BENNETT

Secretary of the Senate, Who May Be Called on to Preside.

Washington, Nov. 29.--A deadlock in the effort to elect a president pro tem of the senate when that body assembled for its regular session on Dec. 2 may result in choosing Charles G. Bennett, secretary of the senate, to preside over the upper house perhaps until the present congress ceases to exist on March 4.

SUFFRAGETTES GET BLAMED FOR THIS

Vindictive Vandals Attack the London Mails.

London, Nov. 29.--A wholesale attack on the postal pillar boxes in the city and the west end of London last night supposedly was made by suffragettes. The destruction evidently had been carefully organized and was skillfully and silently carried out. Thousands of documents were either entirely destroyed or their addresses and contents made indecipherable. The method used was the pouring into the boxes of acid, black ink and paint. The staff of the postoffice was busy for hours sorting out the uninjured letters and trying to read the addresses of those that had been partly burned.

Among the thousands of documents affected by the vandalism were orders, checks, share certificates, contracts and agreements which are known to be irrevocably lost.

A tube showing how the fluids were inserted was found in one box. It was a section of the inner tube of a bicycle tire with one end sealed. There have been no arrests.

TYPHOON'S RAVAGES

Three of the Philippine Islands Swept by Terrible Storm.

Manila, Nov. 29.--Many lives were lost during a severe typhoon which occurred yesterday, causing immense damage to property.

The storm, which was very violent, crossed the islands of Samar, Leyte and North Panay, leaving ruin in its path. The town of Tacloban, the capital of Leyte, was practically destroyed. Two steamers were wrecked in Tacloban harbor.

How many persons were killed by falling houses, flying debris and by drowning is not known, but the loss of life is reported to have been great and the damage is estimated at several million pesos.

DEATH IS DUE TO SURGICAL SHOCK

Operation Proved Fatal to "Dan" Ransdell.

THE END CAME UNEXPECTEDLY

Operated on After the Election at a Washington Hospital Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate Rallied Easily and Was Thought to Be Convalescing, but an Unlooked-for Setback Culminated in His Sudden Death.

Washington, Nov. 29.--As the result of an operation performed here on November 7, Colonel Daniel M. Ransdell, sergeant-at-arms of the United States senate, former United States marshal for the District of Columbia, and an intimate friend of President Harrison, is dead.

Colonel Ransdell was one of the well-known figures of public life. He had been sergeant-at-arms of the senate for nearly twelve years, having been elected to the post in January, 1900. As such officer he had practically complete charge of all official senate affairs, the issuing of subpoenas in senate inquiries and the conduct of senate functions. He will be buried at Indianapolis.

News of the death of the sergeant-at-arms caused a shock in Washington, following so closely on the death of Senator Rayner of Maryland, and of Vice President Sherman. He was operated on after the election at a local hospital. He at first rallied and was thought to be recovering, but a setback culminated in his sudden death.

A committee from the senate will accompany the body of Colonel Ransdell to Indianapolis for burial. He leaves a widow, formerly Miss Mary Cathcart of Indianapolis, two daughters and three sons, two of whom are naval officers.

POPULAR CITIZEN

Mr. Ransdell Will Be Missed Among His Indiana Friends.

Indianapolis, Nov. 29.--Daniel M. Ransdell, late sergeant-at-arms of the United States senate, was born in Indianapolis June 15, 1842, the son of John H. Ransdell. He attended college at Franklin, Ind., for three years, and when the civil war broke out entered the Union army. After the war he took a course in a business college, and then taught school for one year. In 1869 he married Miss Mary Cathcart of Indianapolis.

Local offices held by him were membership in the city council during 1872 and 1873; clerk of the Marion county courts from 1878 to 1882, and member of the board of commissioners which erected the Soldiers' and Sailors' monument. During 1884 to 1889, he was a member of the Republican state committee.

Daniel M. Ransdell was one of the most popular and well liked men the city of Indianapolis ever knew. Gentle and companionable here, he was distinguished by the same traits of character during the years of his residence in Washington city.

FAULTY BRIDGE

To This Cause Is Laid the Blame For Disastrous Wreck.

Philadelphia, Nov. 29.--The death of four persons and injuries to close to 100 more as a result of the wreck on the Pennsylvania road at Glen Loch Wednesday night, is declared to have been caused by careless bridge inspection. This charge has been made direct by Dr. H. R. Owens, chief police surgeon of Philadelphia, who was one of the first persons to arrive at the scene following the accident. Dr. Owens declares that he found that the abutments of the bridge had sunk eighteen inches. They apparently had sunk just as the two monster locomotives pulling the train had got on the bridge. The assertion of Dr. Owens is not denied by the Pennsylvania officials.

The government already has taken cognizance of the wreck, and has dispatched Chief Inspector Belknap, for the interstate commerce commission, to the scene for the purpose of making a report.

Will See Bryan Later.

Hamilton, Bermuda, Nov. 29.--Governor Willson has written to W. J. Bryan to meet him after the president elect has returned from Bermuda. Mr. Bryan was not invited to come here.

QUICKLY FROM LEAN TO FAT

Interesting Possibilities an Outcome of Recent Experiments.

Despite the abundance of dietitians, amateur and professional, there is still room for a considerable increase of our knowledge regarding assimilation and nutrition. This is well illustrated in some recent experiments by F. G. Hopkins of the Cambridge physiological laboratory in England, the New York Evening Post remarks. Dr. Hopkins found that the addition of comparatively insignificant amounts of certain substances to his rations made all the difference between success and failure. He was feeding rats on a carefully measured and purified ration, upon which they should, theoretically, have thrived. But they refused to grow. However, when he added to the ration 4 per cent of milk they began to climb almost like the famous beanstalk.

The actual food value of the small milk addition could not be considered an explanation. The first and obvious conclusion seems to be that the milk acted as what is called a catalyst--that is, its mere presence had the power of promoting the absorption and assimilation of other food. It was proved that a small quantity of milk added to the diet reduced the quantity of the latter (used alone) necessary to produce a given increase of weight by 50 per cent.

It appears that other experimenters have obtained somewhat analogous results by the use of extracts of yeast. It is obvious enough that if these experiments mean what they seem to mean, viz., that certain substances within our reach have the remarkable power of greatly increasing the nutritive value of foods, very important results in the sciences of human and animal feeding may be expected to follow them. If, for example, by the addition of a relatively insignificant amount of some cheap catalyst the farmer can fatten his stock on half the grain ordinarily required, the steadily advancing cost of living will receive a notable check. --Chicago Record Herald.

A small supply of the remarkable substance known as "Food Catalyst" may be obtained from The Flexible Co., Indianapolis, Ind., which they will furnish with full instructions for use to persons thin in flesh and who apply before supply is exhausted, at $5.00 per package. Only one package can be furnished to each applicant until a larger supply can be obtained. Advertisement.

CALEB POWERS

Kentucky Congressman Who Married Private Secretary.

ENDED IN MARRIAGE

Culmination of Romance That Began in Newport Jail.

Newport, Ky., Nov. 29.--Congressman Caleb Powers of the Eleventh Kentucky district was married to Miss Anna Dorothy Kaufman at the home of the bride in this city. Mr. Powers is forty-six years old and his bride is twenty-six. County Judge Hawkins officiated. At the conclusion of the ceremony the couple departed for Washington.

The marriage came as the culmination of a romance that started seven years ago, when Powers, at the order of the United States court, was brought to Newport and incarcerated in the Newport jail, charged with being an accomplice in the murder of Governor William Goebel.

The windows of the cage in which he was kept a prisoner overlooked the windows of Miss Kaufman's home, and one of the first friendly faces that he saw was the pretty one of Miss Kaufman. The latter became interested in the famous political prisoner, the interest became mutual, and it was not long before flowers were sent across the street to Powers's cell.

It was not long until they met, and Miss Kaufman did much to cheer the long, weary hours that Powers spent at the Newport jail before he was returned to Georgetown for trial. Then Miss Kaufman made visits to Georgetown.

During this time Powers was twice sentenced to death and once received a life sentence. Then came the pardon extended to Powers by Governor Willson.

When Powers was elected to congress he made Miss Kaufman his private secretary. During his long fight for freedom the Kaufman family was one of Powers's strong financial supporters.

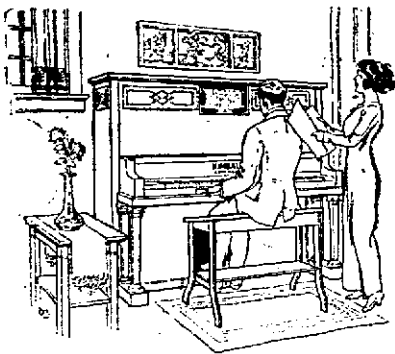

THE HOMECOMING OF ALBERT T. PATRICK

Ex-Convict's First Thought Was of Wife.

New York, Nov. 29.--Bearing the governor's pardon, a free man for the first time in the twelve eventful years he was the shuttlecock of the law, when Albert T. Patrick stepped out the stone-arched doorway of Sing Sing prison he showed that he was capable of human emotions. That was when he said that he was going, first of all, to the wife who was ill and weak. Then his ordinarily emotionless voice broke and his eyes became suffused with tears. He was going to her first of all, and the great plans for the vindication of his name would have to wait until after he greeted her and comforted her as one who had just returned from the grave.

An auto which pressed the speed limit very close brought him to 130 Clemons avenue without a stop, and the elevator of the apartment house was waiting to take him to the floor where the woman who never lost hope was waiting. A daughter, a child when Patrick came into the court twelve years ago, a woman grown now, also was waiting, but to her it was like receiving one from the grave, like an answer to a prayer.

Government Files Its Brief.
Washington, Nov. 29.--Contending that congress has not abridged the freedom of the press by the legislation contained in the last postoffice appropriation bill, which requires newspapers to make statements of circulation, ownership and paid advertising and to meet other requirements before being admitted to the mails as second class matter, the solicitor general has filed a brief in the United States supreme court in opposition to the arguments set out heretofore in briefs filed on behalf of the Journal of Commerce and other publishers, who are attacking the constitutionality of the law.

GAME WAS WON IN LAST PERIOD

Maxwells "Got to" Rushville in Final Quarter, Taking Contest by a 25 to 0 Score.

FIRST HALF A REAL BATTLE

Locals Lost Opportunity to Score From Five Yard Line—Cork Pulled Toward Last.

Rushville went down in defeat before the Maxwell team of New Castle in the annual "turkey day" game by the score of 25 to 0. Twenty-five points at first glance seems to be a bad defeat, but the score in this game is no indication of the kind of battle that Maxwell went through in order to beat the locals.

Maxwell won the game in the third and fourth quarters. The first touchdown was made near the close of the third period and the other three were made in the final minutes of play. The strong Maxwell team was up against real foot ball in the first half of the game. The two teams were evenly matched until the final quarter, when Rushville pulled the old cork and the ginger ran out. The Newcastle team took advantage of the weakened condition of the locals and piled up the score.

The teams fought to a draw the first half, neither team scoring. Neither goal was in danger the first quarter but in the second Rushville had its only opportunity for a touchdown and failed. In this second period the Newcastle team was clearly outplayed. The locals advanced the ball from the center of the field on line plunges. Constant battering on the Maxwell line brought the ball within five yards of the goal. With first down and the goal to make an end run netted a loss of 10 yards and 5 yards more was lost on the next play. The locals were forced to punt and Gunning tried a drop kick, which went wide the mark.

Maxwell resorted to straight foot ball with end runs featuring. Rushville pulled off several forward passes which kept the large crowd guessing. No big gains were made with the forward pass as almost every time Todd was downed in his tracks. The Rushville team weakened in the fourth period and by constant battering on the line Newcastle won what was by no means an easy victory.

On the Newcastle team were two men, who showed up head and shoulders above their team mates. These two men were Clark Stough and "Red" Goodman. Due Stough at quarter-back proved a good general and put up a fine defensive game. Goodman was a bear. He was called upon time and time again to hit the line and very seldom failed to gain. "Red" took a lot of punishment but always came out grinning. The Rushville back-field, Wooster, Mattox and Buell, played in brilliant form. In the Rushville line one man was seen above the rest, that was Capp. He was wised up in about nine out of every ten plays. In fact the right side of the line held better than the left.

Newcastle was penalized frequently for off side plays and holding in the line. Probably a total of seventy-five yards was lost on penalties. Rushville lost but it was some game to lose and the 500 fans were well satisfied. The line up:

Newcastle—Crandall, (Capt.) L. E.; Appleton, Wright, L. T.; Phelps, L. G.; Havens, C.; Procter, R. G.; Schayler, R. T.; Robbins, R. E.; Stough, Q.; Goodman, R. H. B.; Adams, L. H. B.; Dougherty, F. FORMER FISH VENDER HAS METHOD FOR GYPSIE LIFE

while being the propelling power of the moving home, also serves as a sort of attic or store house. Stacked neatly away under a wide expanse of canvass which covered the truck were such things as a sewing machine, wash tubs and a boiler, a large stock of food to last several weeks, a trunk in which their summer clothes are packed, and other odds and ends and nick nacs which one might desire on a trip of this sort.

True, you say, Scolds was a fish vender in Fort Wayne, but this is no fish story, you must understand. Scolds made his little stake at fish vending, and now he and his family are out to enjoy the life that suits them best.

The house on wheels, which runs on a solid gear and rests on a double set of springs that makes riding in it a joy forever, is hitched on behind the motor truck and is whisked over the roads at a merry gate. While traveling thirty miles an hour, the four children can enjoy the scenery, play with their toys or do anything they desire, and Mrs. Scolds, all she has to do is to keep the one room tidy and neat.

Heat? Meriads of it. Light? All any fanatic on the subject could desire. Sleeping facilities? Their plan beats a sleeping porch a hundred ways at least. They have a double sleeping bunk affair in the back end of the wagon where they can get all the fresh air they desire. There is a good-sized wood stove in one corner of the "house" which amply heats the apartment. Their dining table is a folding affair which can be put out of the way when the meals are not the order of business.

"We are taking our time," commented Mr. Scolds this morning. This is proved by the fact that they have been seven days traveling the hundred and eight miles from Fort Wayne.

"We have just given this life one week's trial, and I confess that I like it. We only made eight miles yesterday. We stopped along the road several times and I had a regular Thanksgiving Day hunt. I expect to kill enough game to keep us in meat."

Just then Mrs. Scolds stepped out of the front door of the house and told husband that baby wanted a drink of water. Husband went into the store house, drew up a cup of water from the good canteen and handed it to her.

Then he cranked up, and the home of Scolds was in action. Mrs. Scold's face beamed when she heard the purr of the motor. She looked like she couldn't imagine a more pleasant life.
